MRS. HEALEY SPEAKS FOR ANTI-PROH GROUP

Atlanta Woman Tells Radio Audience Present Conditions 'Unsatisfactory.'

DETROIT, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Speaking for the Georgia division, Women's Organization for Prohibition Reform, Mrs. William T. Healey, of Atlanta, told a radio audience here today she is confident "thousands of our women are dissatisfied with conditions under prohibition."

She was one of nine women who spoke briefly over station WJR this afternoon in a radio symposium conducted by the national anti-prohibition organization. It was stated that Georgia "had one of four state organizations credited with receiving the most publicity."

Mrs. Healey's brief talk in full: "The Georgia division of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform is just four weeks old but we have 1,000 members in Atlanta alone. Although the state of Georgia is traditionally dry, I am confident that thousands of our women are dissatisfied with conditions under prohibition and are only waiting an opportunity to organize for repeal of the 18th amendment."

'Alfalfa Bill' Confesses He Seldom Takes 'Chew'

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 1.—(UP)—Accident forced Governor William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, famed as Oklahoma's tobacco-chewing governor, to announce today he has been 12 years since he took a "chew."

The governor's plight was serious at press conference. His pipe was broken. His cigars were gone. He will not smoke cigarettes.

"In order to keep the news columns straight," said Murray, "you have called me a tobacco-chewing governor. You know I haven't chewed for 12 years. But now I'm out of cigars. Who the hell has a chew?"

None could produce a plug, but one reporter produced a 10-cent cigar, which the governor accepted, although he always buys 5-centers himself. And so the "chewless" record remained intact.

GERMANY EXPANDS CUSTOMS POWERS

Hindenburg Decree Gives Government Right To Alter Rates, Make Treaties.

BERLIN, Dec. 1.—(AP)—An emergency decree giving the government virtually unrestricted powers to raise customs duties was signed today by President Paul von Hindenburg.

The government's new powers, which are to be evoked in the event of "stringent economic necessity," include the authority to lower tariffs to a prohibitory level, but they are not expected to have much effect on American exports to Germany.

Commercial commentators pointed out that the bulk of imports from the United States are raw materials or semi-manufactured goods necessary to Germany's industrial life.

The new decree, one of the short-issued since Chancellor Brüning began governing Germany by presidential edict, reads thus:

"The government is given power during the recess of reichstag in the event of stringent economic necessity (1) to change existing import duties (2) to effect a system of temporary bilateral treaties with foreign countries."

The reference to bilateral treaties was interpreted by some observers as designed to enable Germany to negotiate tariff questions with Great Britain, which now is experimenting with protection.

It was pointed out that bilateral agreements may be worked out without parliamentary interference under the terms of the decree.

American wheat farmers have little to fear from any tariff rise because duty of about $62 a ton now collectible virtually bars their product.

Some lines of manufactured goods, representing less than 20 per cent of American exports to Germany, might be affected by new regulations.

American business circles apparently were little concerned. It was pointed out that the general European trend is to give governments control over imports in order to build favorable balances without appreciative widening of export markets.

The government's new powers exist until February 23, when the reichstag recess ends.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK GROWS BRIGHTER

announced that on December 15 contracts will be let for the large amount of highway work to be pushed to a completion in Georgia.

In Atlanta, particularly the business improvement noted was encouraging. The volume of retail trade here recording an increase of almost 30 per cent over that of September, while in leading lines of wholesale commodities gains likewise were registered.

New highway projects, for which contracts will be let, were announced after a meeting of the state highway board held at Moultrie, district headquarters.

Projects approved for letting include 78 miles of paving, 21.5 miles of pebble and top soil, 39 miles of grading and 18 bridge. A number of the projects have previously been advertised by the board.

Fulton will get 1.5 miles of construction on the Jonesboro road. Twenty-six projects are scattered about the state with the bulk of paving.

Nicholas Given 3 Days To Renounce Marriage

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Dec. 1.—(AP)—King Carol of Rumania, angered by defiant letters from his brother, Prince Nicholas, has given the prince until Thursday to renounce his marriage to Mme. Janna Lucia Deletj or be expelled from the royal family, said reports from Bucharest today.

The king recently gave his younger brother a two-months' furlough to "think things over," but letters subsequently received were said to have changed his mind.

Big Trade Gain.

For the entire sixth federal reserve district, the survey set forth, retail trade scored a gain of 33.7 per cent in October over the previous month.

Previous month, although this was a loss of 15.4 per cent as compared with October, 1930. In Atlanta four leading department stores reported a total increase in retail trade of 29.9 per cent over the month previous.

The comparatively sharp upturn in trade during October caused business leaders to believe that, in addition to a more optimistic outlook expressed by the buying public, the holiday trade this year would be proportionately larger.

Building Permits Drop.

The total number of building permits issued during October showed a decline as compared with September, but in Georgia increases were noted in Augusta, Macon and Savannah.

In Atlanta, the total valuation of permits issued was $307,000 for the month, as compared with $350,000 for the same month the previous year.

Bank deposits, both demand and time, declined, but outstanding federal reserve credit at the Atlanta bank reached the highest level of any date in three years, the survey stated, because of increases in discounts and in the holding of purchased bills.

Estimate of the 1931 cotton crop, made by the department of agriculture in November, showed a distinct increase, but the total crop estimate for the sixth reserve district, comprising the states of Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Louisiana and Tennessee, was 3.9 per cent smaller than in 1930.

Consumption of cotton in three states figures available at the time the survey was made, was 11.1 per cent higher for the three months of the cotton season—August through October—than at the same period in 1930.

Naval Stores Decline.

Naval stores receipts for the season—April through October—were smaller, the report said, but prices of both turpentine and rosin recently registered improvement.

In the sixth district the sale of new, paid-for, ordinary life insurance increased 2 per cent in October over September this year, it was noted, although total sales of such insurance was 20.3 per cent less than in October the preceding year.

Summarizing the wholesale and retail trade in the entire district, the report said:

"There were further increases in October over September in the volume of trade, both wholesale and retail, and in the volume of bank debits at reporting cities of the district, but all of these measures of business activity continue lower than at this time last year. The increase in retail trade was somewhat larger, but that in wholesale trade smaller, than the gain usually recorded from September to October."

AIR VIEWS

ATLANTA took another big stride in its aviation march Tuesday, when Eastern Air Transport, Inc., opened its double passenger service to Savannah and Charleston, both via Augusta. These lines are important enough in their own right, but the outstanding feature of the new routes is the fact that they provide, for the first time, direct air connection through Atlanta for passengers from Florida and other parts of the south bound for Kentucky, Ohio and adjacent states. Air travelers now may continue a journey from Jacksonville to Cincinnati, for instance, with only a brief wait here. Heretofore, Eastern Air's afternoon plane from Florida arrived too late for a connection with American Airways' northbound ship.

The weather gods, after a week of misbehavior, turned over a new leaf for a day, supplied a rain which cleared the atmosphere and allowed the inaugural planes to get through. Coming back is something else again, though, as the outlook for today, meteorologically, is pretty gloomy.

Bound for the conference in East St. Louis, where, today, Thursday and Friday the uniform aviation law will be discussed by delegates from most of the states of the union, Asa G. Candler Jr. and Beeler Blevins will take off in charge of First Lieutenant Charles H. Howard and Lieutenant Frederick Ott, the one among the south's most prominent plane-owners and the other the veteran pilot of this territory, have been appointed as Georgia's official delegates by Governor Richard B. Russell Jr. The three-day meeting will be held at the Broadview hotel.

Governor Russell, who is genuinely enthusiastic on the subject of the uniform aviation law, has instructed his delegates to gather all information possible and submit it to him. The governor said Tuesday that only the press of last-minute legislation would do to with appropriations and restricting prevented consideration of the law at the last session. He is active in support of such a measure, which is designed to regulate the operation of aviation in the state and to safeguard life and property. Only five states in the union—and aviation leaders are rather ashamed of the fact—have laws on the books which have failed to take this progressive step, and a definite movement is on foot to get this state in line when the general assembly next convenes.

The uniform aviation law, while following, in general, the regulations of the aeronautics branch of the department of commerce, goes a step further in that it prohibits the operation of unlicensed airplanes or unlicensed pilots within the confines of the state. Alabama passed the law this year, in many cases, unwarlike planes simply moved across the border into Georgia and flew about at will, at the public's peril. The Candler field regulations are modeled after the uniform aviation law and are as fine as far as they go, but they extend no farther than the city limits of Atlanta and provide no protection whatsoever to legitimate operators in the less populous centers. It is assured that a strong campaign will be waged for the passage of the law at the next session.

Five O-38 B's. Hornel-powered Douglas observation planes, landed at Candler field Tuesday afternoon on their way to New Orleans, where the national guard convention is being held. Leading a squadron of three planes was Captain Vincent Meloy, air corps, who is connected with the office of the chief of the militia bureau. The other ships were piloted by the following members of the Connecticut national guard: Major John S. Captain General, Captain Mills and Lieutenant Hanson. The officers were quartered Tuesday night at Fort McPherson and plan to resume their trip this morning, if weather conditions permit.

Lieutenant Glenn Holland, A. C., who is perhaps better known to Atlantans as a star end on Georgia Tech's championship football team of 1928, landed Tuesday afternoon in a C-40, or powered 0-25. He came here on official business. Lieutenant Holland now is stationed at Fort Benning, Ohio, reached the airport late yesterday afternoon. Making a successful landing after running short of fuel, Riddle phoned the Curtiss-Wright Flying Service and 10 gallons of the precious fluid were rushed to him. His plane was not damaged. Curtiss-Wright had several other visitors Tuesday, including Fred Dorsett, who brought a plane-load of Augusta aviation enthusiasts, coming here for the ceremonies inaugurating the new passenger line. He was flying a six-place Travel Air monoplane.

Two other O-38 B's, on their way from March field, California, to Rolling field, Washington, landed at Candler field Tuesday. They were in charge of First Lieutenant Charles H. Howard and Lieutenant Frederick Ott, and in Washington will be exchanged for Keystone bombers. The two ships will fly back to the March field bombardment group, which has been using the observation planes temporarily. The two airmen planned to spend Tuesday night in Greensboro. The very last work in gasoline trucks now supplies the needs of army aviators who call at the air corps reserve hangar at the airport. Holding 450 gallons—which can be transferred from a pump into the truck's tank in 12 minutes—the new equipment will save a lot of time in taking care of refueling operations, now confined to an upright pump in the hangar. The powerful motor which propels the truck likewise supplies the power for operating the refueling system. In addition to its other equipment, the truck carries two big fire-extinguishers.

WALKER PLEADS FOR TOM MOONEY

tional stress, that he believed Mooney to be an innocent man.

His voice broke as he held out his hands toward the supreme court bench where sat the governor of California and begged that Ralph "do justice where justice has been denied."

Walker began his speech at noon and spoke for 40 minutes before the lawyers began the task of summing up. Although troubled by a severe cold, the visiting mayor did not falter as he pictured the yearning of "Mother" Mooney for her son.

"Some day the sun will go down in sunny California," he said, "and that dear old soul will not be here. When that night comes may her son be there."

Walker stressed the fact that only one tribunal remains for Mooney's appeal, that of the governor.

Crowd Assembles in Square.

Soon after the hearing was started in the austere but small chamber of the supreme court, a crowd carrying banners assembled in the square outside the state building. They chanted "Free Tom Mooney," and two delegations attempted to enter the courtroom. Entrance was refused. The indignant shouts following the double refusal precipitated a mild disturbance and half a dozen patrol wagons filled with agitators were taken to the police station.

Mayor Walker cited the record of pardons and commutations granted by California governors since the Mooney case was tried.

He submitted that "this is a case if there ever was a justification of the pardon power."

"The jury that said he was guilty now says he is innocent."

"The judge who tried him asked for executive clemency, urged by the jurors themselves, who have asked that this plea for a pardon be granted."

"On a big man say 'I was mistaken,' said the mayor.

"Let me repeat, it means so much to me. I feel it so keenly the jurors have come forward, unwilling to be the doers of an erroneous thing, and asked for executive clemency."

Walker read a letter from Charles M. Fickert, district attorney, at the time of the Mooney prosecution in reply to a telegram from Walker, in which Fickert said:

"You are probably right in maintaining that you are to the best interests of the state for executive clemency to be extended to Mooney. I have not been unhappy in the criticism leveled at me. Your excellency dissipated all that. I would rather that I had never visited your state than to trespass upon your hospitality."

"What difference does it make what state a man comes from, if he comes with righteousness in his heart and justice as his end?"

"A wall from behind prison walls from what I believe to be an innocent man," Walker said, brought him here.

"A life of politics is hard. A target one must become is well known to your excellency. Sometimes it is terribly hard."

"The compensation must come from within."

Relates Visiting Mooney's Mother.

He then told of his visit to Mooney's mother, Mrs. Mary Mooney, and to the prisoner at San Quentin.

"I wanted to satisfy myself before I made a word of plea to your excellency."

"I saw gentility, intelligence, a kindly man."

Walker, after he had closed, again arose and asked Governor Ralph to explain and apologize for the publication of a letter from Mooney to Walker before it was presented in court. It was without the mayor's consent, he said.

The letter read by Walker quoted Judge Griffin's letter to Mooney expressing belief in his innocence. It continued with an explanation of Mooney's reasons for refusing executive clemency other than a full pardon.

"A parole would be too great a price to pay for my freedom," Mooney wrote, "as it would carry with it the implication of guilt of this heinous crime."

Walker, in concluding characterized the language of the letter as "the words of a courageous man," and a real American.

MASSACHUSETTS OPENS ACCIDENT CLAIM PROBE

BOSTON, Dec. 1.—(UP)—Massachusetts, first state to have compulsory automobile liability insurance, crossed its fingers today and started an investigation of suspected fraudulent practices which have grown up around the law and which involve members of the legal and medical professions.

A committee of citizens, organized to investigate frauds that insure claims and led by Frederick W. Mansfield, president of the State Bar Association, petitioned the state supreme court today to appoint an officer with power to investigate conduct of members of the bar in connection with such claims. William H. Hitchcock, former assistant attorney general, was appointed.

In its petition the committee charged the following practices had arisen since enactment of the law: (1) Claims for invented personal injuries to cover uninsured property damage; (2) exaggeration of injuries; (3) collusion between lawyers and automobile owners to extort money for unwarranted claims; (4) claims for injuries never suffered; (5) concealment from claimants by attorneys of amounts received by them in settlements; (6) unconscionable fees; (7) division of spoils between lawyers and others; (8) solicitation by lawyers direct or through "runners"; (9) lawyers appearing for both parties in claims arising from some accident; (10) cases of settlement by attorneys without knowledge of the claimants; (11) unauthorized claims and suits brought by attorneys without knowledge or consent of claimants.

Commercial commentators pointed out that the bulk of imports from the United States are raw materials or semi-manufactured goods necessary to Germany's industrial life.

WITNESSES DETAIL
BARFIELD SLAYINGMorris Murder Trial Is Expected To Reach Jury
Late Tonight.

Probability that the trial of former Patrolman W. T. Morris, charged with the murder of Police Lieutenant J. W. Barfield, on September 19, will reach a jury late tonight was seen Tuesday night when court recessed until 9 o'clock this morning. The day was featured by attempts of the state to show by testimony that Morris was drunk at the time of the shooting, the defense seeking through cross-examination to show that the patrolman had been taking medicine and that he was not intoxicated.

The trial was opened Tuesday morning before Judge Edgar E. Fowery in Fulton superior court, with Solicitor-General John A. Boykin and two assistants, Ed A. Stephens and Walter LeCraw, handling the prosecution, while Morris was represented by the law firm of Branch & Howard, assisted by Stonewall Dyer, Newnan attorney.

The entire day was spent in placing state witnesses on the stand in an effort to prove that Morris was drunk and that he had been taking medicine at the time of the shooting.

In this statement it is alleged that Morris told fellow officers that a man fired from a green "cut-down" auto and killed Barfield, and that the empty chamber in his own pistol was accounted for by the fact that he fired at the fleeing assailant. The state will continue to place witnesses on the stand this morning.

Witnesses called during the day in order were: A. L. Reddick, negro, known as "Preacher"; Ben Kaplan, shoe shop owner, 957 S. Peachtree street; Patrolman W. D. Nash, chief of Police James L. Beavers, Patrolman L. H. Roberts, Dr. Willis Jones, G. W. Pruitt, Mrs. W. K. Fawcett, Mel Wilson, negro; Barney Wood, of Columbus, and R. M. Wood.

A wrangle over the testimony of Kaplan was the only feature of the morning session when Boykin showed that Kaplan had signed a sworn statement to the effect that Morris was reeling and smelled strongly of whiskey on the morning of the shooting, but that when called to the stand he was evasive and contradicted himself. Kaplan testified that he had smelled no whiskey and that Morris was limping instead of reeling.

On cross-examination he stated that he knew that Morris was suffering from an infected foot, and that he had a pair of shoes for him to aid the condition, and that the "limping" may have been caused by that. He illustrated the limping by pointing to the shoe.

Patrolman Nash testified that he warned Morris, when the latter relieved him at the beat at Teuth and Peachtree streets, about drinking, telling him that someone might report him to headquarters, and that Morris replied he would "shoot anyone" who came after him. Patrolman Roberts, on the stand, testified that he saw the shooting, fixed the time of the "call" concerning the shooting.

Chief Beavers testified that Morris had been drinking when brought into his office, and that he had known him for many years while Morris was his secretary and that he knew when Morris' conduct was not normal.

The most direct testimony concerning the shooting was offered by Dr. Willis Jones, who testified that he heard a shot, saw the lieutenant slumped over the wheel in his car and that when he opened the door to the car, a smoking gun fell from between Morris' legs to the running board. He told of Morris' statement to him that someone in a car had shot Lieutenant Barfield and that he had fired at them. He stated that Lieutenant Jack Malcom came up at the time and that he turned the gun over to him, having told Morris to call an ambulance. He testified that he did not smell whiskey on Morris, nor see the "green car."

G. W. Pruitt, a Georgia Power Company bus driver, stated that he was driving across Fifth street at the time and heard only one shot fired. Mrs. W. K. Fawcett, a passenger on the bus, testified that she heard one shot and saw the lieutenant slumped over the wheel of his machine. Barney Wood and his father, R. M. Wood, fruit vendors, stated they heard but one shot and that the killing occurred across the street from them. Young Wood said he went to the car and that, in his opinion, Morris acted as though he was drunk. The elder Wood did not go to the car, he said.

ATLANTA WELCOMES
2 NEW AIR ROUTES

An aviation hub, through which the Carolinas and south Georgia are now given an economical outlet to the north, south and west in air transportation.

Mayor Key outlined briefly the growth of aviation in this city, and asserted that within 90 days a new $50,000 administration building would be erected at Candler field. He referred to the inauguration of the two new lines as "one of the most valuable things that has happened to the social and spiritual life of these sections."

Feeling of Intimacy.

"It will give a feeling of intimacy to Atlanta, Augusta, Aiken, Columbia, Charleston and Savannah that never existed before," the Atlanta mayor said. "Atlanta will stand squarely behind this new enterprise and will do its duty toward development of aviation in this community."

Mayor Haynes, of Savannah, assured the aviation executives and the officials of the inter-connected cities of Savannah's co-operation.

"The new route," he said, "places Savannah within two hours of the capital of Georgia, and that is something that both Atlanta and Savannah has always needed. We are living in a fast age, and it is a truth that we cannot live alone. These new routes will bring to Atlanta and to one another that spirit of friendly co-operation so valuable to us all."

Mr. Hay, who represented Governor Russell, assured the gathering that the state of Georgia endorsed the progress being displayed by its cities in aviation, and Mayor Owens, of Columbia, spoke of the tremendous commercial importance to be derived from such a network in the southeast.

E. S. T. Argument Mentioned.

In expressing the sentiments of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, President LeCraw drew a laugh when he spoke of the closeness to one another the termini of the new routes would effect.

"In fact," said Mr. LeCraw, "those opposing eastern time for Atlanta had one unique argument. They objected to Atlanta having eastern time, on the ground—for one thing—that a person could leave Columbia or Augusta in an airplane and arrive in Atlanta at the same hour on which he left those cities."

A telegram was received from Mayor Thomas B. Stoney, of Charleston, in which that official expressed regret at his absence from the banquet because of other engagements.

Mayor-elect Maybanks, in referring to Mayor Key's introductory remarks that "Charlestonians have never learned there is a prohibition law," brought more laughter when he said there now were two factors for bringing Charlestonians to live in Atlanta.

"Every time we have a session of federal court in Charleston," said Mr. Maybanks, "some of our most prominent citizens go to live a few years in Atlanta. Now there are two things that will take them there—the United States government and the Eastern Air Transport."

First Plane Departs.

The first plane to leave took off from Candler field at 7:55 a. m., central time, stopping at Augusta, at 10:25 a. m., eastern time, and reaching Charleston at 11:40 a. m., eastern time. Hopping off from Savannah at 10:30 a. m., eastern time, the first Atlanta-bound plane, stopping at Augusta to pick up officials of that city, landed at Atlanta's field at 12:45 p. m., central time.

Shortly after the arrival here of the Savannah plane, another Kingbird took to the air from Candler field, heading for Augusta and Savannah, arriving there at 4:40 p. m., eastern time, while later in the afternoon the final ship to "off" to complete the inter-city trip, left Charleston at 3:30 p. m., for Atlanta, arriving here at 5:10 p. m., central time.

Ceremonies at Augusta, Charleston and Savannah preceded those at Atlanta, the arrival of each ship being greeted by civic, business and aviation officials. Fog and smoke, which, in many parts of the south, kept commercial planes grounded, lifted to permit the inauguration flights of the new southeastern routes.

On board the plane which left Atlanta for Savannah were Clint W. Hager, United States district attorney; Alva G. Maxwell, vice president of the Citizens & Southern National bank; T. K. Jones, Atlanta Constitution; W. C. Adamson, vice president of the First National Bank of Atlanta; and J. J. Martin, assistant superintendent of mails, Atlanta.

Those aboard the plane from Savannah and Augusta, included, in addition to Mayor Thomas M. Haynes, Savannah, and Mayor W. D. Jennings of Augusta, the following passengers: M. O. Dunning, Peter Nugent, Garrard Haines, Henry Hulm, Judge Saxton Daniels and Judge Solomon, of Savannah, and George Cushing and H. A. Elliott, Eastern Air Transport officials, and Thomas J. Hamilton, Rothwell Lee, Raleigh Daniel, L. S. Moody, R. A. Elliott, L. B. Owens and J. C. Shewmake, all of Augusta.

On board the plane arriving from Charleston were Mayor-elect B. R. Maybanks, Colonel Lawrence Gantt, Colonel Nathan Barnwell, Cotesworth Means and Mayor Thomas P. Stoney.

Those on board the Atlanta plane for Charleston were G. E. Merritt, assistant to Fred Hiron, assistant superintendent of railway mail service; Robert Whitley, of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce; A. S. Hopkins, Harry Wilensky and L. S. Jamieson, pilot.

Inauguration of the new passenger service will result in Candler field strengthening its hold on the claim of high rank in the list of the nation's airports, and will bring to a total of 22 daily arrivals and departures of regularly-scheduled craft. The new service will operate between Atlanta, Charleston, Savannah and Augusta, with two daily round trips between the three principal termini—Atlanta, Savannah-Charleston.

The new routes likewise will provide a quick aerial connection between Charleston and Savannah with the north, south and west, the Atlanta hub giving to the Carolinas and south Georgia a ready means of air travel to all points of North and South America.

Atlanta-to-Savannah Hop.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Dec. 1.—The inaugural flight of Eastern Air Transport's new air passenger line from Atlanta to Savannah ended on schedule here this afternoon at 4:20 o'clock, eastern standard time, when a twin-engine Curtiss Kingbird plane, carrying four prominent Atlantans, landed at the Savannah municipal airport.

After being greeted by a large crowd of Savannah citizens, the Atlanta party was taken to the Savannah hotel, where they were honored guests at a dinner tonight.

"Southern Evening"
Recital Is Given
By Louise Williams

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—A distinguished and brilliant gathering of southern and New York society attended the "southern evening" recital given by Miss Louise Williams, formerly of Atlanta and Augusta, tonight in the Barbizon-Plaza hotel, during which cabin stories and plantation folk songs in the negro dialect were given by Miss Williams.

Among those who attended the recital were Assistant Secretary of War F. Truice Davison and Mrs. Henry P. Davison; Major General and Mrs. Hanson E. Ely, Major General and Mrs. J. G. Harbord, Major General and Mrs. Lucius Holbrook, Major General William N. Haskell, Mrs. James H. Darrington, Admiral and Mrs. W. W. Phelps, Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson and a number of others representing fashion, wealth and culture.

Miss Williams was born at the home of her grandparents, Oak Grove, near Augusta, and was educated at the Tubbman High school of Augusta. She has become one of the most popular dramatic hostesses in New York, having carved for herself a distinct niche in the negro folklore recital art. For the duration of the World War Miss Williams presented her programs at the larger cantonments, base hospitals, battlefields and Red Cross huts.

Cloudy and Cooler
Forecast for Today

Continued cloudy weather with cooler temperatures is the weather menu for today, according to C. F. von Herrmann, meteorologist, with but a very slight chance for rain. "There is a possibility of a little rain," he declared, "but it's very slim. The clouds will be more or less of a bluff. Out of the cloudy weather we have been having so far we have only gotten .06 of an inch of rain."

The day is to be hazy, but with little or no fog, he forecast. The temperatures will be somewhat lower than Tuesday when the range was between 48 and 55 degrees. Today's mercury will start off at 40 degrees and climb to 50 degrees, he asserted.

New Link Lauded.

Atlantans and Savannahians alike characterized the opening of the air line as "an important link in the business and social relationship of the Georgia capital and this progressive coastal city."

The Atlanta delegation lauded the many recent improvements made at the local airport and said "it is potentially one of the best in the south."

Atlantans who made the flight here included Alva G. Maxwell, vice president of the Citizens & Southern National bank; W. C. Adamson, vice president of the First National bank; Clint W. Hager, United States district attorney; and John J. Martin, assistant Atlanta postmaster. Paul Charles was the pilot.

In addition to the party making the inaugural flight tonight's banquet was attended by the following prominent Savannahians: C. Andrew A. Smith, manager Hotel Savannah and chairman of the reception committee; Carl W. Seiler, Chamber of Commerce representative and master of ceremonies at the line inauguration; H. V. Jenkins, president of the Morning News and Savannah Press and member of the mayor's advisory committee on aeronautics; Howard C. Poon, chairman of the Savannah industrial committee, and Alex Cassels, of the Chamber of Commerce.

Liquor for Veterans
"Riles" U. D. C. Chapter

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Opposition to including liquor in Christmas gifts to Civil War veterans of Camp Nicholls here was injected heatedly into a meeting today of Jackson Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

Miss Belle Van Horn threw the meeting into a warm discussion, when she arose to say she opposed the usual purchase of Christmas liquor for the veterans. She said it was against the law and urged a resolution condemning the practice. She suggested the resolution be presented to other chapters.

Mrs. P. J. Howell urged a continuation of the contributions, saying "the old men need a little liquor now and then."

"All the old soldiers at the camp are over 80 years old," she added, "and the liquor won't hurt them. Besides the alcohol is presented to the nurse and administered for medicinal purposes under orders of a physician."

The meeting adjourned without action being taken.

ous tests, in one of which he made an unofficial record of 307 miles an hour. His record today, which is subject to an official check, topped the 278.45 miles an hour which was made in France in 1924.

In his dash over the course today with the wind "by his side" time was 12:57 p. m., just six hours and 40 minutes after his start. This was one hour and eight minutes under the record time for the distance established several months ago by James Goodwin Hall, New York broker and aviator.

Wedell could have beaten that time by 55 minutes had he been sure it was Vancouver airport he saw. He said he could not believe he had flown the approximately 1,200 miles from the Mexican resort city in less than six hours, and flew 100 miles on up the British Columbia coast and back before he was certain of his location.

While Wedell was resting from his fatiguing flight which, along with the snowstorms, caused him to abandon an attempt to complete the round-trip, Hawks was in a little hotel in Granada, Cal., near the Oregon border.

While flying from Vancouver to Agua Caliente, he became dizzy near Granada and landed in an open field. He was not hurt and his plane was not damaged. Dr. Victor Hart, of Yreka, Cal., said Hawks could fly again tomorrow if he desired.

Hawks left Vancouver at 9 a. m., stopped for fuel at Portland, Ore., at 10:25 a. m. and landed near Granada at 12:20 p. m.

Wedell offered his plane put away at Vancouver for the night and said he would hop back tomorrow.

3 Names Added to Gunplay Toll
After Child Murder and Suicide

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Three names were added tonight to the list of school children shooting scrape victims in this region.

Fay Staser, 17, a high school student, was found seriously wounded at Lyons, Ind. He reported he had been shot by an unidentified assailant and told a story of having received a series of "threatening letters."

At Crown Point, Ind., an investigation was pressed into the slaying of Harold Seymour, 12, Wilbur Sherman, 12, was accused of shooting the lad to death because he threw stones at the Sherman home.

Donald Rancey, 15, was wounded in the hand at Joliet, he said, when a companion brought to school exploded in his hands.

A Chicago coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death in the fatal shooting of Constant Trohats, 15, by her school chum, Joseph Wilson, 16. Wilson was attempting to show the girl how their friend, Henry Sio, 16, had shot to death 12-year-old Ruth Wicklund and then committed suicide earlier in the day because of a "puppy love" romance.

BRUENING PARTY
BATTLES FASCISM

BERLIN, Dec. 1.—(AP)—The executive council of the social democratic party, the strongest in the Reich, unanimously adopted a resolution today not to yield in its fight against fascism and social reaction, and to demand from Chancellor Bruening a stronger defense of the constitution.

Advocating an international agreement to improve economic conditions, the party, with the full support of trade unions, rejected moves to lower wage levels, threatened by forthcoming emergency decrees.

EXPLOSION DAMAGES
BUILDING AT TULANE

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Explosion of a defective drum of hydrogen sulphide partially wrecked the Richardson chemistry building on Tulane University campus today, but 200 students and instructors in the building escaped injury.

Fire following the explosion was quickly brought under control. Two women students, trapped on the third floor of the building, climbed out of a window and hung to the ledge until they were rescued by a hook and ladder crew. A professor leaped to safety from a lower window but was not hurt.

A Typewriter Included With
The Business Course At The Southern Business College

Fifty Remington Machines
With Fifty Scholarships
To the First Fifty
Young People
Applying.

L. W. ARNOLD.
President S. S. & Business University.

Perhaps the most remarkable offer ever made by a reputable business school is that contained in the following announcement of the Southern Shortland and Business University, the old reliable business training institution which has recently moved into its new and elegantly appointed home at 193 Peachtree street.

Fifty scholarships, to the first 50 young people applying, will include a brand-new Remington typewriter with each scholarship, and at the regular catalog cash price of the course selected.

With the Combined Bookkeeping, Shortland and Typewriting Course, the $32.50 Remington Noiseless Portable Machine will be included.

With the Secretarial, and also the Bookkeeping-Typewriting Course, the $50 Remington Portable Machine will be included.

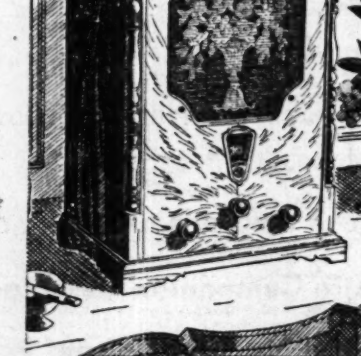

The Remington Rand Typewriter Company and the Southern Business University are making this most wonderful offer in order to encourage young people to attain greater efficiency in typewriting, hence to become more valuable to their employers, which, in turn, will place their services in greater demand by business firms. After these 50 machines have been taken, the Southern's pupils will doubtless rent typewriters in order to keep up their home practice for the purpose of becoming more expert in their typewriting work.

The students are expected to put in two three hour extra typewriting practice at their homes while attending the Southern, and at the end of their courses, they will thus be more expert in typewriting and would, consequently, secure the more desirable positions. These machines will be the property of the pupils to be disposed of as they may desire. Some firms require their stenographers to own their typewriters, but a machine is valuable to anyone in any event. Enroll now or buy your Typewriter-Scholarship now for January entrance. As the enrollment of January is usually very large, the 50 Typewriter-Scholarships will not last long. This is your opportunity. Call, phone, or write at once for further information. Address L. W. Arnold, President, 193 Peachtree Street, Atlanta, Georgia. Walnut 8834.—(adv.)

Textile Mill Broker Asks
Damages Against Piedmont Alleging Assault, Arrest.

Petition for $100,000 damages against the Piedmont hotel, alleging failure to afford proper protection of a guest against the assaults of "a drunken man" in the hotel lobby and for "procurement," "maliciously and without probable cause," of the plaintiff's arrest, were filed in superior court by Clarence E. Mason Tuesday afternoon.

The petition for Mr. Mason, native of Georgia, well known for his property interests here, and a textile mill broker of New York, and known nationally as chairman of the Latin America Evangelization campaign and treasurer of another large missionary organization, was filed through his attorneys, Hooper & Hooper. It sets forth two counts against the hotel and describes Mr. Mason as being the victim of a violent attack on the hotel lobby on the night of October 23, 1931.

Particulars Cited.
In the petition it is stated that at about 10:30 o'clock on the night mentioned Mr. Mason was a guest of the hotel and was in the lobby when accosted by a person under the influence of whiskey, as plainly evidenced by his boisterous conduct.

It is alleged this person approached Mr. Mason and began to use the "most insulting, profane, vile and abusive language" toward the petitioner. When Mason requested that he desist, the latter "became more abusive and made efforts to strike the petitioner," the petition states.

According to the petition, Mason then appealed to N. J. Harbin, house detective, for protection, requesting that the man be removed from the hotel. Instead of complying, Harbin greeted the man familiarly, whereupon the latter returned the salutations and renewed his attack upon Mason, attempting to strike him and grabbing the glasses of Mason, the petition sets forth. Harbin also refused to tell Mason the name of his alleged accoster, the petition says.

Appealed to Manager.
According to the petition, Mason next sought a city officer, but being unable to find one, went to the manager's desk at the Piedmont and appealed to E. C. Simmons, in charge. While talking to Manager Simmons and with his back turned to the drunken man, the latter accompanied by House Detective Harbin, attacked Mason and was allowed in the presence of Simmons and Harbin to beat Mason violently with a walking cane, the petition alleges. Mason alleges in the petition that he suffered bruises on the face causing the left side to remain sore for at least a week, that his left arm was bruised and sore for several days and that he was struck a violent blow on the head, all directly due to the attack made on him in the hotel lobby.

Mason further contends through his petition that the hotel officials aided his assailant to get away without being molested by police officers and that instead, he himself was arrested by "Officer Cartwright" in the presence of, and with the knowledge, consent and procurement of said Simmons, manager of the defendant company, and at almost midnight was taken to the city jail and locked up with persons accused of various crimes, and his person searched by police authorities.

"That said police authorities, after searching and questioning plaintiff, and finding him to be sober and not intoxicated as said Simmons and Harbin had represented him as being to said arresting officers, then released plaintiff upon his giving a $17 cash bond conditioned upon his appearance to answer the charges made against him, to wit, the charge of being drunk and disorderly." The petitioner also sets forth that Simmons and Harbin sought unsuccessfully to have him convicted of the charges in a police trial.

Eastern Time Workers in Enthusiastic Session

Their votes are for eastern standard time for Atlanta. Why Atlanta Wants, Needs Eastern Standard Time brokers, industrial leaders and retail store managers in Atlanta.

Executives in Richmond, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Detroit, Washington, Philadelphia, Baltimore, New York, Boston, Hartford.

Do not the voters of Atlanta want to aid Atlanta in its trading, commercial and industrial problems? Then they will vote TODAY for EASTERN STANDARD TIME.

FOURTH—The thousands of employed persons in Atlanta stores, markets and offices will benefit by an added HOUR OF DAYLIGHT every afternoon.

How will these employees gain an added HOUR OF DAYLIGHT? Business in Atlanta, as in every other city, runs by the clock. Daylight-saving time is placed in effect every spring to last until fall by practically every large city in the EASTERN TIME ZONE, for the one reason that an added HOUR OF DAYLIGHT is gained. Atlanta by changing to EASTERN STANDARD TIME will gain this added hour every day in the year. Clock time is the time we arise by, the time we go to work by, the time we QUIT WORK by and the time we retire at night by. And who doesn't like to quit work before dark sets in?

FIFTH—Burn SUNSHINE and DAYLIGHT instead of artificial light.

Why will burning SUNSHINE and DAYLIGHT be an advantage to Atlanta and Fulton counties? Physicians and scientists and oculists all state that DAYLIGHT is better for HEALTH reasons. DAYLIGHT and SUNLIGHT cost nothing. Artificial lighting savings are pure profit which accrue as it fits Savannah perfectly and will fit Atlanta when it is approved.

A telegram from Mrs. H. V. Scarborough, of Macon, president of the Sixth district Parent-Teacher Association, to campaign headquarters for eastern time Tuesday "heartily approved the change for Atlanta." She denied that it would work a hardship on Atlanta business, and that children would be kept from school, but instead would give mothers and children more time for sleep in the morning.

In Line With Big Cities.
F. L. Speiden, prominent Atlantian, and chairman of the Southern Freight Traffic bureau, cited the fact that Detroit, Toledo, and Columbus fought successfully to get into the eastern time belt and asked why Atlanta lags. He held that every one of the border cities are in the eastern time belt with the exception of Atlanta, Philadelphia, Chicago and other large cities have, since the war, convincingly demonstrated the advantage of summer daylight saving, his letter pointed out.

"They have no thought of returning to ante bellum days. A telephone call from Atlanta at 2 o'clock in the afternoon in summer finds your friend leaving his office at 4 p. m. New York time."

What Others Think.
Peter R. Nugent, president of the Savannah Chamber of Commerce, also advocated the change in the interest of business efficiency, asserting it would be a decided forward step.

And as these exponents of the change cited the commercial and industrial advantages with the addition of health and exercise, Atlantians in ever increasing numbers urged the voters to ratify the proposed eastern time for the city.

Additional impetus was given the drive when the council of the faculty of Georgia Tech took a decided stand for the change. Mack-International Motor Truck Corporation employees joined the long list of advocates, according to P. J. Degnon, vice president, and Ivan Allen, chairman of a committee of three workers: the Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce; a large group of Macon officials, including Mayor G. Glen Toole; business, professional men and civic workers; Edgar Watkins, internationally known Atlanta lawyer; E. H. Ginn, district manager of the General Electric Company; and Rebecca Shuman, chairman of the legislative committee of the Business and Professional Woman's Club, added their voices to the appeal.

Resolution Adopted.
The following resolution on adoption of eastern standard time as drawn up by a committee of the council appointed by President M. L. Brittain, follows:

"The council of the faculty of the Georgia School of Technology, believing that the adoption of eastern standard time for the city of Atlanta would result in benefit to the majority of its citizens because of the addition of another hour of daylight in the afternoon, thus allowing more time for recreation on the part of young people of school and college age, and permitting many of the office and factory workers to reach home before or by dark even during the short winter days, at its meeting Thursday, November 19, 1931, unanimously voted to ask the president, Dr. M. L. Brittain, to appoint a committee of three empowered to express by resolution the favorable attitude of the council.

"Your committee, therefore, offers the following as an expression of the wish and will of the council:

"Be it Resolved:
"1. That the council of the faculty of the Georgia School of Technology is in favor of the proposed change from central to eastern standard time for the city of Atlanta.
"2. That the members of the teaching staff of this institution be asked to vote for the adoption of this change, in so far as they may have influence and opportunity."
"Signed:

"Committee."

Text of Mr. Degnon's letter follows: "The employees of this organization have advised me that they intend to vote for eastern standard time and in checking up the reasons I find that they want that extra hour daylight in the evening for recreation and exercise."

"I read somewhere the statement that Atlanta's business men selfishly desired this extra hour of daylight for their own recreation even though it worked to the disadvantage of their employees. It is them returning to any thinking person that the statement is ridiculous."

"If Atlanta's business executives play golf they don't wait until 5 o'clock in the evening to set forth with their clubs. On the few week days of the year when they can manage a game of golf they set forth at the noon hour and you will find them returning from their game at the same hour that their employees are rushing to the golf courses to take advantage of what little daylight there is left after the day's work is done. It is for these employees that Atlanta's business executives will vote for eastern standard time and the employees of this company are kind enough to appreciate that fact."

to every person in Atlanta and Fulton county.

SIXTH—Decatur, Hapeville, East Point and College Park are dependent upon Atlanta for their time schedule. They want EASTERN STANDARD TIME.

Why should these sister municipalities want EASTERN STANDARD TIME and why should Atlanta consider their wishes?

Decatur is out of step with the rest of DeKalb county under central time. East Point, College Park and Hapeville are out of step with the farming communities and cities south and east of them under central time.

Mayor Scott Candler, of Decatur, says that EASTERN STANDARD TIME will be far more satisfactory for his city and its citizens, that the social and business relations with the rest of DeKalb county and all the section to eastward are an hour off schedule under central time.

Mayor W. A. Landers, of Hapeville, says Hapeville wants EASTERN STANDARD TIME, that it will help business relations with the vast EASTERN STANDARD TIME section to the south and east of Hapeville.

The mayors of College Park and East Point both state that their cities are ready to adjust their clocks to Atlanta's. They, too, will benefit through business relations with the EASTERN STANDARD TIME cities.

Atlanta should consider the wishes of her sister municipalities in a spirit of fairness and Greater Atlanta will be. These cities see the fairness to Atlanta as well as themselves in EASTERN STANDARD TIME. They, too, see the benefits which will be derived by all the Greater Atlanta territory.

operated on eastern time and trains quote that time as soon as they get there.

"The Central operates from Macon to Atlanta on central time just because Atlanta has that time. Trains going to Cincinnati over the L. & N. use central time, but the Seaboard and Southern both use eastern time except within the city limits of Atlanta."

"Every day there are people who miss their trains because of the time change. It takes two hours to get to two times in Atlanta. Business representatives and out-of-town visitors waste time each day on account of misunderstanding about the time of appointments."

"This is a good time to make the change, as new timetables will be issued in 30 days for tourist trains and the new time can be written in them," Mr. Hackett concluded.

Atlanta's Time "Slow."
"The only thing slow about Atlanta is her time. It seems if there were no other consideration, this would be sufficient to bring bustling, busy, bustling Atlanta up to date."

Mr. Anderson declared: "At present the people to the east of here lose an hour when they go to Atlanta. If she has any entertainment it begins at bedtime for the easterner. When they get back home they begin their business on schedule time, which gives them the greatest discouragement. They are not used to the new time. Their routine will be over an hour earlier than now, they will go to bed an hour earlier, and they will not be able to get up an hour earlier. Macdon had this same resentment and wanted to cling to her old-fashioned ways, but when everyone here is ready to accept the new time, an hour earlier in the morning, and finishing the day's work with some daylight still left, everybody will be satisfied. We found after and after, the only question of whether some should go to work or from work in the dark."

"The people to the west of Atlanta, who will remain on central time in the event Atlanta changes, will not be inconvenienced by reason of the fact that their business in Atlanta will be done in the hour and then this additional time to return home and attend to their affairs there. Atlanta is a big factor in the life of everybody in the state, and everybody should afford to have her an hour ahead, but an hour behind, good heavens, no! The time line ought to follow state lines, as formerly, but in lieu of that it is important that the largest city shall be ahead of or abreast of the fastest."

Others Strong for E. S. T.
"Mayor Toole is strong in his assertion for eastern time."

"Eastern time is the only sensible time for us or Atlanta to have," he said. "We certainly ought to have a uniform time. Every time a man from Atlanta has an engagement here, or a Macon man has an engagement here, he is either an hour early or an hour late. If you're driving to New York you lose an hour between here and Atlanta, and then pick it up again before you get to New York."

"The loss of time in going to Atlanta to transact business from most other parts of the state on account of the difference in time is a decided handicap to that city," observed Mr. Morris, manager of the Macon Chamber of Commerce.

"When a person goes to Atlanta to do business it is generally 10 o'clock Atlanta time before he can get through, which means that it is 11 o'clock in his own town and by the time he gets back it is lunch time. It is a strong case for eastern time and believe it would be a great aid to visitors to Atlanta if eastern time were adopted."

Chief Likes Eastern Time.
"Police Chief Ben T. Watkins said he would like to see the whole state have the same time."

"It is very confusing at times, the way the state is divided now," he said. "Most of the state uses eastern time and I think it would be well if the rest adopted it, too. Of course the Atlanta people should arrange the time to suit themselves, but it would certainly be more convenient for the rest of us if they would change. Macon is perfectly satisfied with eastern time, and we have never had any complaint."

"Joseph N. Neel, Macon's oldest merchant, who has operated under both central and eastern time, said he would be gratified if the entire state adopted eastern time."

"Mr. Burden, who is president of a department store, wouldn't have Macon change back to central time."

"Eastern time is by far the most satisfactory we could go by," he said. "Here we come to work at 9 o'clock and close at 6 o'clock, winter and summer. It's the most sensible time, as far as all businesses I know of are concerned. I hope Atlanta will change. It is out of joint, and frequently causes trouble when Macon people must go to Atlanta for appointments."

"Mr. Wagon, secretary-treasurer of another department store, is of the same opinion."

"I would have very much for Macon to go back to central time," he said, "and I feel Macon and Atlanta should have the same time. We are not far enough inland for central time and the most logical time we can possibly have is eastern time. I don't know of a person here who would change to central time. There is no reason why Atlanta should be just included in the central time line."

Allen Sees Big Margin.
Predicting that the adoption of eastern standard time for Atlanta would be carried by a large majority in voting at the polls today, Ivan Allen, prominent businessman and civic worker, for a long time a leader of the movement, said Tuesday that all Georgia not now having eastern time would certainly adopt it following such action by Atlanta.

Mr. Allen was the principal speaker at the Junior Chamber of Commerce meeting. The junior chamber passed a motion unanimously endorsing the adoption of eastern standard time, following the address by Mr. Allen and an appeal by R. J. Reynolds Jr. to members of the organization urging them to help "bring out the vote" at today's elections.

"There can be no question but what the fight is won," Mr. Allen said. "Our only regret is that it should partake of the nature of a fight or campaign. This was a very important question of those favoring the movement, inasmuch as it was for the general benefit of Atlanta and all Atlantians."

Mr. Allen said, asserting that he was forced into this position by a certain "interested opponent."

"A big city like Atlanta should be included in the time zone where most of its business is conducted, instead of being on the edge of a different zone," Mr. Allen said. "For its best interest, all Georgia should have on eastern time, and I have no doubt but once Atlanta makes the change, the line will be pushed to the Alabama boundary where it belongs."

Others for Change.
Edgar Watkins Sr., nationally known Atlanta lawyer: "It is my belief that Atlanta would have adopted eastern time long ago had the matter been left to popular vote. The mass of Atlanta people would be benefited, and I do not believe a few selfish interests would be able to thwart this move for the good of all."

E. H. Ginn, district manager General Electric Company: "Our company has so many contacts with firms and offices in the eastern time zone that many of our executives have to keep their watches set on eastern time. We find that we literally have to operate on eastern time in a city whose official time is an hour behind and this is a great handicap. I am sure there are many other plants in Atlanta which would welcome the more sensible eastern time."

"At the last meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club of Atlanta, resolutions were adopted to influence the movement for eastern time."

Engineer Asks Change.
Text of a statement issued by J. C. Ford, mechanical (estimating) engineer of the O'Pry Heating & Plumbing Co., follows:

"Regarding the time controversy now going on over the radio and in the columns of our daily papers, I am in sympathy with every one of your 20 cardinal points. One cartoonist of another paper sympathizes with mothers and children getting up in the middle of the night to get children to school in time and all that bunk. He is all wet and his idea appeals only to a certain set of folks that are already running late in everything they do."

"They are late getting up, late with their meals, late getting to work, late in their engagements, late for the theater, late for church, and liable to be late when St. Peter closes the nearly gates and Gabriel blows his horn. Well, for those kind of folks it doesn't make much difference. They will only be late right on as usual."

"The eastern time schedule will be a real benefit to tradesmen and office folks who really have pep and do things of accomplishment, and they are the folks that make the world go round. We get to work at 8 o'clock, after 1 1/2 hours of good old daylight has gone, never to be recalled. Then we work till after dark to accomplish a day's work when our vitality is at the lowest with the strain of the lights glaring in our eyes, injurious from a standpoint of health."

"Give us eastern time, turn up the clock. Morning hours have gold in their mouth. Pep up, getting some thing done with less energy. Go home and rest when it is dark outside as the All-Wise Creator intended in His divine plan."

"Sincerely yours,
"J. A. FORD,
"Mechanical (Estimating) Engineer."

House Rule Liberalization May Bring Prohi Law Vote

Proposed Change Would Allow Calling of Bill
From Committee on Call of Less Than Majority.

BY MARK SULLIVAN.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—The action of Republican Candidate for Speaker Snell and the republican caucus committing the party to "liberalization" of the rules of the house makes it certain liberalization will take place, because the democrats are whole are fully as sure to favor the innovation as the republicans. Indeed, the democrats may be said to have favored it first. The change in the rules, therefore, can be taken completely for granted.

From this, the deduction is almost universally made that there will be a real benefit to tradesmen and office folks who really have pep and do things of accomplishment, and they are the folks that make the world go round. We get to work at 8 o'clock, after 1 1/2 hours of good old daylight has gone, never to be recalled. Then we work till after dark to accomplish a day's work when our vitality is at the lowest with the strain of the lights glaring in our eyes, injurious from a standpoint of health."

"Give us eastern time, turn up the clock. Morning hours have gold in their mouth. Pep up, getting some thing done with less energy. Go home and rest when it is dark outside as the All-Wise Creator intended in His divine plan."

"Sincerely yours,
"J. A. FORD,
"Mechanical (Estimating) Engineer."

Quite certainly 100 wet members, if that is the number chosen, will thus move to bring a wet bill to a vote. It is right here that the universal mistake is made. The wet members cannot bring their wet bill to a vote. They can only move to bring it to a vote. What the wets can accomplish under liberalization of the rules is to make the house vote on whether the bill should be brought out of committee. They cannot make the house vote on the bill itself. Since a majority of the house is dry, presumably a majority would vote to leave the wet measure in the committee.

It is true the wets will be able to make a certain amount of progress. To express it accurately, the wets can make the drys go on record as to whether they are willing to vote on prohibition. The wets cannot make the drys actually vote on prohibition itself.

The wets will be able to make the drys and others go on record in a roll call with their refusal to vote on a prohibition bill. That is about the limit of the advantage given the wets by the change in rules.

One typical proposal put forward by an important democrat, Crisp, of Georgia, liberalizes the rules but refrains from opening the door to change. Under Mr. Crisp's bill, a bill must have been in committee 30 days before an attempt can be made to get it out. Mr. Crisp's bill proposes that as the number of members necessary to sign the petition. Other proposals suggest 125 or 150. Under Mr. Crisp's proposal, the new rule can only be invoked as to any measure once in session. Liberalization of the rules applies, of course, to every kind of legislation and it will have much real importance in many fields of legislation besides prohibition.

Elimination or Regulation Urged for Holding Companies

Senator Connolly, of Texas, Believes Millions Are Realized on Watered Stock While Investors Suffer.

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—There seems to be a strong unanimity of opinion on the state side of Capitol Hill that the holding company with its overcapitalization, unjust profit-taking and stock jobbing, must be entirely eliminated or rigidly regulated by federal authority. The democratic side of the upper chamber is all but unanimous in its conviction that there must be legislation enacted which will effectively control the holding company and safeguard the investing public from high pressure stock and bond salesmen.

Senator Tom Connolly, of Texas, who saw many years of service in the house before he moved over to the senate, today added his voice to the stand taken by the Constitution against the "money racket" and uncontrolled activities of the holding company.

"I believe the holding companies can be controlled," said Mr. Connolly, "but at present they are not organized in the interest of the public nor are they doing business in a way to add credit to our present financial system."

"I understand the federal power commission is now trying to find out who owns the various units throughout the country controlled by holding companies. The commission has an expert from Texas at work looking into the entire field of power control, and in his report he will endeavor to unscramble the entire power situation as it exists today."

"As nearly as I have been able to find out the holding company was formed to milk the little company in order to pay officials exorbitant salaries, realize millions on watered stock and leave nothing for the innocent investor. There has undoubtedly been overcapitalization and inflation in railroad, utility and bank stocks. I don't believe in chain banking, nor do I favor the principle upon which the system is founded."

"I wouldn't want to turn over to the interstate commerce commission control of the holding company because I think this commission has enough trouble of its own. But it occurs to me that the commerce department would be a good agency of control—or the federal trade commission might do. Before any commission is named, however, I favor a complete and exhaustive investigation by the senate."

"The current depression was vitally affected by the orgy of stock and bond issues which had no real value behind them, and if the practice is not stopped the time is coming when every corporation doing an interstate business will have to be federally controlled. The state can't do anything about it, but in my opinion Uncle Sam will."

Mr. Connolly is a member of the banking and currency committee and is also on the finance committee.

State Seeks Violators Of Forest Fire Laws

Rewards of $100 for evidence sufficient to convict violators of the state's forest fire laws occurring between June 1, 1931, and May 31, 1932, were authorized Tuesday by the executive committee of the state board of forestry.

The rewards, it was announced, will be paid from forestry funds. Governor Russell recently announced similar rewards of $50 each for evidence sufficient to convict violators.

COUZENS OPPOSES BANKING CHANGE

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(AP)—A new caution sign on legislative banking panaceas appeared on Capitol Hill today in a warning by Senator Couzens, republican, of Michigan, against a "drunken orgy" on federal credits expansion.

Senator Couzens, himself a successful businessman with plenty of money to show for it, lined up with the federal reserve banks and Senator Glass, of Virginia, democratic spokesman on banking legislation, against any permanent changes in the federal reserve system.

Like Glass and some other financial experts, the Michigan senator is willing to consider emergency expedients to relieve the present situation but he opposes any easing of restrictions on paper eligible for re-discount by the federal reserve banks for an indefinite period.

In announcing his national credit pool, President Hoover proposed that some classes of paper which cannot be rediscounted at the federal reserve banks at present be made eligible for such treatment.

"Because we happen to be sick," Couzens cautioned, "we mustn't dose ourselves with a lot of credit narcotics."

Couzens thought the president's plan for a federal home mortgage banking system commanded careful consideration, but he was at odds with his colleague, Senator Vandenberg, republican, Michigan, on proposals for changing the regulations of the reserve system.

Senator Couzens, who is chairman of the interstate commerce committee, also expressed the view today that further loans to the railroads was not the cure for their difficulties. He is studying that problem.

W. W. BARBOUR NAMED TO SUCCEED MORROW

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 1.—(AP)—W. Warren Barbour, formerly mayor of Rumson and wealthy thread manufacturer, was appointed today by Governor Morgan F. Larson to succeed the late Dwight W. Morrow as United States senator from New Jersey.

Governor Larson said Barbour's commission would be issued today and he assumed Barbour would go to Washington in time to be sworn when congress convenes December 7.

Barbour, who is 43 years old, is a republican. He was once amateur heavyweight boxing champion of the world. He entered public life in Rumson in 1922, when he was elected to the borough council. The next year he became mayor to serve until 1929.

In that year, he entered the republican primary for the republican nomination for state senator. He was nominated and elected.

During the present year he served as chairman of the finance committee of the republican state committee.

Barbour fought his last public boxing bout in 1911 and at the time was hailed by James J. Corbett as the only boxer worthy to meet Jack Johnson for the heavyweight title. He refrained from entering the professional ranks, however.

Barbour will serve until a successor is elected in the 1932 general election. He declined to indicate immediately whether he would enter the republican primary next year.

REPUBLICAN SENATORS GRATIFIED BY SELECTION.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Senate republican leaders today expressed pleasure at the selection of W. Warren Barbour, of Rumson, N. J., to succeed the late Senator Dwight W. Morrow.

Barbour's selection by Governor Larson assures the republicans of a majority in the senate. The lineup stands: Republicans, 48; democrats, 47; farmer-labor, 1.

Senator Watson, republican, Indiana, said he was gratified by the choice.

"I know Mr. Barbour well," Watson said, "and am sure he will make a strong character in the senate."

Senator Walcott, republican, Connecticut, said he was delighted to learn of the appointment.

Members of the New Jersey delegation in congress know the new senator well. Those in Washington today commended the governor's choice.

PANAMA PREMIER RESIGNS POSITION

PANAMA CITY, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Prime Minister Guillermo Andreve handed his resignation to the president today and it was announced Demasco Cervera, minister of agriculture, would become acting premier.

A report in political circles said Andreve may become the compromise candidate for president of the regular and progressive liberal factions, now represented by the candidacies of Harodio an Francisco Arias.

The latter, it was said, is inclined to favor the candidacy of Andreve.

POLICE TO DROP CASE AGAINST STAR'S MATE

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Dec. 1.—(AP)—District Attorney Tom Whelan asked Sebring (Fla.) police today by telegraph to drop attempts to question Francis A. Guider, retired businessman and husband of Marjorie Rambeau, former screen actress, in connection with charges brought by a woman here against Richard Francis.

"I am satisfied," Whelan said, "that it was a case of mistaken identity."

STATION CHALLENGES RADIO COMMISSION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Station KGEF, Los Angeles, operated by the Rev. Robert T. Shuler, today appealed from a decision of the radio commission ruling it off the air.

At the same time a stay was asked of the order refusing a renewal of KGEF's license so the station might continue to operate pending the appeal. The court, however, refused the stay.

Santa Claus' Indiana Postoffice Plans for Big Christmas Rush

SANTA CLAUS, Ind., Dec. 1.—(AP)—The little fourth-class postoffice in this town, five miles from a railroad station, is making plans for the greatest Christmas rush in its history.

Heretofore letters addressed by children to the patron saint of Christmas which found their way here have been the greatest problem of the postoffice staff, but this year outgoing mail will cause unprecedented congestion.

Direct-by-mail advertisers and firms that mail Christmas cards and gifts for clients have notified the postoffice department at Washington they plan extensive mailing from here this year so the letters and packages will be postmarked "Santa Claus."

As a result, two special mailing machines capable of postmarking 40,000 letters per hour are being shipped here, and special clerks familiar with their operation will swell the postoffice staff.

This development in the growing popularity of Santa Claus, Ind., has caused reports that steps will be taken by postoffice officials at Washington to have the name of the office changed.

But this year the officials can only grin and bear it, and arrange for many more than the almost 1,000,000 pieces of mail sent from here last year by people who first thought of the "Santa Claus" postmark idea.

DECATUR WILL ELECT TWO COMMISSIONERS

With 2,325 citizens of Decatur registered, the annual city election to decide a five-membered commission for two municipal commissioners will be held today. Polls will open at 8 o'clock this morning and will be closed at 6 this evening.

Mayor Scott Candler, a member of the commission for the last eight years, is considered the leading candidate. Others in the contest are W. W. Freeman, Walter G. Bryant, Mel Turner, and James T. Persons. The contest for city commission usually is hotly contested and it is expected today's race will be no exception. Polls will be located at the city hall, Redding's pharmacy, Oakhurst, and the East Lake Drug Company.

Members of the Decatur city commission are elected for a term of two years. Candler and Freeman are incumbents, seeking re-election.

TOBACCO GROWERS HIT LOW PRICES

OWENSBORO, Ky., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Incensed because of low prices offered them, approximately 3,000 farmers attending the opening tobacco sale of the season here today broke up the sale after hurling apples at the auctioneers. Then the farmers unanimously adopted a resolution not to raise any tobacco next year.

Approximately 78,000 pounds of dark leaf tobacco had been sold at two warehouses for an average of $4.61 a hundred, compared with an average of $8.47 on the opening day last year, when close to 500,000 pounds were sold.

As the auction continued and rejections became more numerous, the farmers began voicing their objections. Shouts of "You can't take our tobacco that way!" interrupted the auctioneers. Threats to wreck the warehouses unless the sale was stopped were heard.

SUPREME COURT HEARS ATTACK ON BLUE LAWS

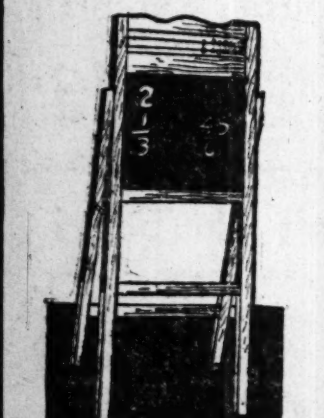

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(UP)—Sunday blue laws as interpreted by the Virginia courts came up for review today before the supreme court which was asked to define the word "necessity" as it is employed in the ancient statute.

The Virginia law is similar to that of 15 other states.

The case at bar was furnished by the proprietor of an indoor golf course in Richmond whose manager had been arrested for operating on Sunday. The city officials had threatened him, it was claimed, with continued prosecutions if the course remained open.

The Virginia statute, like many others, prohibits Sabbath work except household duties, works of charity or works of "necessity."

MRS. PURTELL, 83, PASSES TO REST

Mrs. Sarah J. Purtell, founder of the Atlanta Home for Old Women, and one of the most widely known women in the city, died early Tuesday morning at her home.

MRS. SARAH J. PURTELL.

day afternoon at the residence, 538 Boulevard, N. E., at the age of 83. An invalid since February 12, 1918, when she fell and broke her hip, she had been in failing health for some time.

Loved and honored by all who knew her, Mrs. Purtell had devoted her life to philanthropic activities, the most noted of which was her interest in the Home for Old Women. She was active president of the organization sponsoring the home for 10 years following its establishment and at her retirement was elected honorary life president.

It was through her untiring efforts and service that the home grew to its present size and importance. Located in a small cottage on the corner of Peachtree and Cain streets at its start, it now houses more than 40 old ladies in a beautiful home in West End.

Other Activities.
Purtell took a prominent part were the Ladies' Pioneer Society and the Prayer and Relief Society, in both of which she was a charter member. She also was a member of the First Methodist church.

Born in Atlanta August 6, 1848, as a young girl she gave her services to the Confederacy, making beds and caring for the wounded soldiers. She joined the Atlanta chapter of the U. D. C. in its infancy, and was also interested in the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mrs. Purtell, the daughter of the late Elisha Dyer Crawford and Eliza A. Christian, married the late Edward Charles Purtell, a prominent citizen of Atlanta.

She was signally honored last year by the citizens of Atlanta on the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Home for Old Women.

Funeral services will be held at Spring Hill, the time to be announced later.

Surviving Mrs. Purtell are one daughter, Mrs. William Andrew Brierly; a son, W. R. Purtell; one granddaughter, Mrs. F. S. Mitchell; a granddaughter-in-law, Mrs. Harry M. Purtell; and seven great-grandchildren, all of Atlanta.

Representatives from the Georgia School of Technology will attend the final services for Dr. Kenneth G. Matheson, former president of Georgia Tech and noted educator, which will be held at Cheraw, S. C., this morning. The delegation was appointed by Dr. M. L. Brittain, present head of Tech, to represent the faculty in paying a last tribute to Dr. Matheson, who died Sunday at Bryn Mawr, Pa.

Further honor will be paid when all classes at the Atlanta institution are suspended for the hour during the services at Cheraw, Dr. Matheson's family home.

High tribute was given to the president of Drexel Institute Tuesday afternoon in Bryn Mawr, when prominent men in the educational field of the south and the nation gathered for funeral services at the residence. Dr. Matheson was head of Georgia Tech from 1906 to 1922 and was widely known throughout the city and state.

LACK OF FUNDS DELAYS CITY WORKERS' WAGES

Atlanta's 3,500 employees will not get their pay checks today because of lack of funds, it was announced at the city hall. They must await collection of approximately $50,000 more before checks will be distributed, officials said. Mayor James L. Key takes the position that Atlanta will pay all or none of its employees on time. It takes about $550,000 to meet a first-of-the-month pay roll. Necessary collections are expected by the end of this week.

GAS RATE AGREEMENT IN AUGUSTA LEGALIZED

Three-Judge Decree Handed Down Here, Approving Compromise.

Controversy over gas rates in the city of Augusta between the Georgia public service commission, the city of Augusta and the Georgia public utilities company, was settled Tuesday when a three-judge decree was filed in federal district court here.

The action makes legal a compromise agreement between the three factors, reached some time ago. Under the decree of Tuesday the utilities company will refund $22,500 to Augusta gas users, representing the difference between the former gas rate and the compromise rate. The company also was ordered to pay $10,000 to the city for expenses in opposing the company's injunction suit against lower rates.

All other costs of litigation, including $3,000 to Styles Hopkins, of Atlanta, who acted as special master, must be paid by the company. The city is to pay $2,000 for the special master's report also. "The court is to retain jurisdiction in the matter until users have been paid and 10 days given the public service commission in which to file an order in conformity with the compromise agreement."

A new rate, effective with December readings, allows a service charge of 85 cents a month, a minimum charge of $1 a month per meter and other corresponding lower rates per cubic feet of gas used.

TRIAL OF RUTH JUDD POSTPONED BY COURT

PHOENIX, Ariz., Dec. 1.—(AP)—At the request of defense counsel, the trial of Winnie Ruth Judd, admitted slayer of Mrs. Agnes Le Roi and Miss Hedvig Samuelson, has been postponed from December 15 to January 19.

Herman Lewkowitz, one of her attorneys, told the court the defense is taking depositions in Ohio and Indiana and would not be ready to go to trial before the middle of January.

Joint Love Letters Made Public As 'Ski Girl' Rallies in Hospital

MINEOLA, N. Y., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Miss May Gledhill, comely Canadian "ski girl," whose strange mode of living came to light when she collapsed last Saturday, was pronounced out of danger today at Nassau hospital, where she is a patient in the charity ward.

Mystery continued to veil the cause of her illness. She stuck to her original "try and find out" attitude throughout the day.

Miss Gledhill's mother spent two hours tonight at the bedside of the attractive young Canadian sportswoman, whose bizarre life was revealed Saturday when she was seized with an unexplained illness.

But whether mother and daughter discussed Miss Gledhill's two-year-old son was as much a mystery as the cause of Miss Gledhill's sickness.

Mrs. Gledhill said a theory that Miss Gledhill had taken poison was ridiculous.

She left the hospital by a private entrance and made no statement upon her departure.

Mrs. Ida Conner, who took Miss Gledhill and the latter's 2-year-old son into her home after saying her husband had admitted being the father of the child, told reporters she was too busy taking care of the infant to visit the hospital.

She said she had cared for Miss Gledhill and the child because "it seemed the Christian thing to do."

She permitted reporters to read letters to herself and to Miss Gledhill from her husband, William A. Conner, who is serving a term in Vermont penitentiary for forgery. All the letters were read by both women.

Two of them, which came in the same envelope, said:
"My dear wife:
"I am looking forward to the time I get out of here, when you and I may start life anew. I know that I have caused you much grief and misery, but you must know that I regret it all. I know that you understand me and the world, and that you has been in the hospital physicians have been unable to find any symptoms of poison, and have, in fact, been unable to diagnose her illness. Immigration authorities have no record of any agents visiting her. A theory that she collapsed through nervous strain at the fear she might be deported to Canada and not be allowed to take her son along has been put forward as an explanation of her condition.

Though her breathing and heart action have returned to normal, oxygen tanks and equipment are kept near-by in the event they are again needed.

Trial Is Postponed.

ROCKY MOUNT, N. C., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Because of the congested docket of Nash county superior court, trial of D. W. Coleman, railway detective, charged with murder for shooting Tom C. Chappell, of Florence, S. C., was postponed today until the March term.

Positive Proof of FORD ECONOMY

This impressive army of Ford cars is only part of the total purchase by the City of Detroit

City of Detroit buys 137 new FORD cars Hundreds now in use prove low cost of operation

THESE 137 new Ford cars represent one of the largest deliveries ever made to a municipality at one time. Twenty-one radio-equipped Ford scout cars were traded in on this purchase. They had been operated day and night for two years in heavy traffic and all kinds of weather.

Their individual records ranged from 78,434 miles to 143,723 miles, with a grand total of 2,283,097 miles. The operating cost of the 21 cars was 2.284 cents a mile—less than 2 1/3 cents. This cost included all fuel, oil, tires, repairs and every other item except depreciation and insurance.

Of 577 Ford cars in Detroit City service, the 300 in the Police Department traveled a total of 6,591,937 miles during the past fiscal year, at an average cost of 2.9 cents a mile. Many claims have been made on operating costs, but here in the carefully kept motor car records of the City of Detroit is positive, convincing proof of Ford economy.

In the column at the left, it is seen that 21 Ford scout cars averaged less than 2 1/3 cents a mile and 300 Ford cars in all branches of Detroit police work averaged 2.9 cents a mile!

Day and night, twenty-four hours a day, these Ford cars are in operation. Few branches of transportation demand such grueling service. The records show that low fuel and oil consumption is but one of the Ford's many economies. Ford materials, simplicity of design, and accuracy in manufacturing provide unusual strength, stamina and freedom from replacements and repairs. The individual car buyer as well as the purchasing department of a city or a business cannot afford to ignore the proved economy of the Ford.

Key's Proclamation Declares December 'Happiness Month'

Mayor James L. Key Tuesday directed his attention away from matters of state long enough to settle a major question.

He settled it by asserting, "There is going to be a Santa Claus this Christmas—the gayest, merriest Santa Claus you ever saw."

And from the sanctum of the city's chief he issued a proclamation, declaring that Atlanta should enter into the spirit of the holiday season. He proclaimed the month of December a month for happiness, and constituted every Atlantian a member of the committee to disseminate happiness and to radiate good cheer.

"I want this to be the jolliest Christmas season that Atlanta has ever enjoyed," the proclamation read, "and I wish to do this by having you that there is going to be a Santa Claus—the gayest, merriest Santa Claus you ever saw."

"I know that Santa Claus is coming because I know the spirit of Atlanta. It is to do the right thing in a big way; it is to live to pitch rather than catch; to give rather than receive; to live and let live and do that living well.

"So here's to a real, old-time Christmas with its traditional irresistibly beautiful spirit spread over every day of December, and I proclaim you, the reader of this proclamation, an important member of the 'committee' that is to spread good will to all men and thanks to God for letting each of us have so vital a part in bringing a merry Christmas to all."

MILLER TO REFUSE COTTON SESSION

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Rescinding his opposition to the cotton acreage reduction plan of the Jackson, Miss. conference, Governor B. M. Miller today said he would not call a special session of the Alabama legislature to consider the proposal.

Voicing objection to the plan, Governor Miller said that while acreage was restricted, there was no restriction on production except by indirect means.

"What is to prevent a farmer from using twice as much fertilizer on a small field and raising as much cotton upon a field of larger acreage?" he asked.

SOCIALISTIC ACTIVITY DRAWS POLISH PRAISE

WARSAW, Poland, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Jan Dembski, former chairman of the foreign affairs committee, testified today at the deputies' trial at Breslau-Litovsk that socialistic agitation in Poland proved helpful abroad.

The witness declared this agitation showed even the socialists insisted on retaining the Polish corridor. He testified at the trial of 11 deputies and former deputies charged with conspiring against the government.

From former Cabinet Minister Stanislaw Thugut came testimony that he had heard Marshal Pilsudski express his opinion that the most efficient means of ridding himself of an opposition.

BUTLER URGES 'CLUB' AS PEACE SAFEGUARD

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Major General Smalley D. Butler, United States marines, retired, said last night that the "best way to keep out of wars is to use words of one syllable, to sign treaties with one hand and wave a club with the other."

He made this assertion during a debate in which he took the negative side of the question whether disarmament will end wars. His opponent, the Rev. Preston Bradley, of the Peoples church, argued that there never was a war that did not create bigger problems than itself, that wars are made by old men and fought by the young, and that the genius of mankind would not tolerate "alley rat warfare, killing each other."

GROCERY STORE LOSES $149 TO HOLDUP MEN

Early morning bandits robbed the grocery store at 221 East Tenth street of $149 in cash Tuesday morning, just as the doors were opened for the day's business, according to police reports.

R. L. Odum, manager of the store, was robbed of $129 by two armed white men, while a third waited in a mud-stained car at the curb in front of the store, and J. N. Watkins, market manager of the store, lost $20, he said. The men were dressed in new overalls on which the price tags had not been removed. Odum said he was unable to get the number of the car because mud covered the figures.

Shipping Board Seeks Ban on Steamer Parties

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(AP)—There will be no more drinking excursions aboard palatial liners to just beyond the 12-mile limit, if the shipping board can convince congress.

The annual report of the board asked legislation to prevent these "voyages to nowhere" by foreign ships. Coastal shipping laws now prevent foreign liners from touching two American ports without an intervening foreign call, but nothing is said about going out and back again.

The board coupled with this recommendation a demand for more money. It wants to lend for construction of more American ships up to the limit of the $250,000,000 Jones-White law revolving fund. The limit of loans now is $185,000,000.

DRY AGENT HELD IN 'BAMA KILLING

Murder Charged to Federal Operative After Rooming House Tragedy

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 1.—(AP) Department of justice agents tonight were probing into the slaying of a Federal Day, alias J. L. Harvey here last night by P. A. McCartney, 31-year-old federal prohibition agent, who entered the service six months ago.

McCartney, meanwhile, was being held in the county jail without bond on a blanket charge of menacing, menacing and completion of the coroner's inquest.

After the slaying last night McCartney, through Victor J. Butthol, deputy prohibition administrator and his immediate superior, said he shot in self-defense as Day advanced on him threatening to kill him.

Examination today disclosed two bullet wounds in Day's chest and a third in his right wrist, but it had not been definitely determined whether he had been shot once or twice.

Thelma Anderson, who resided in the downtown rooming house where Day was slain last night, told police Day was retreating when McCartney fired with a small-caliber automatic pistol.

Two patrolmen near the scene of the slaying at the time last night, raced to the rooming house where they said they found McCartney pounding the door and trying to get out.

Butthol later told the coroner McCartney had told him he and the woman had been to other places making purchases and that the liquor found on him was purchased for evidence.

McCartney was quoted as saying he had entered an agreement with the woman to ask for leniency for Day, against whom he had made a case in the name of "J. H. Harvey," and in return she would aid him in finding liquor law violators.

McCartney, until his joining the prohibition forces six months ago, operated a business school in Alabama, Ala., where he was active in religious work and a member of a civic club.

RUSSIA LAUNCHES NEW SIX-DAY WEEK

MOSCOW, Dec. 1.—(AP) Soviet Russia's widely-heralded change in the working week became effective today, but observers found it impossible to see any appreciable difference inasmuch as the decree was not mandatory in all lines of endeavor.

The formal decree provided for the institution of a six-hour day and six-day week for the former six and half hour day and a five-day week in all branches of national economy desiring to adopt it. But the extent to which it will be applied may not be known for some time.

The most significant features of the new system from the workman's viewpoint were the abolition of the "uninterrupted" five-day week, under which everyone had one day off in five, depending on his choice, and the adoption of a six-day "interrupted" week under which national rest days were established for all.

MACON, GA., DEC. 1.—(AP)—Bob Hogg, granted a new trial in New Orleans today by the United States circuit court of appeals, was tried in United States district court here with Walter Culliff and Cecil Johnson for conspiracy to violate the national prohibition act. Hogg is an Atlanta man, and only one instance of the alleged conspiracy was cited in the middle district. Others were in the north Georgia district, the government contended. The theory advanced by the prosecution was that Hogg was boss of a liquor-selling organization in Atlanta, and that Culliff and Johnson were henchmen. Double Voting Days Planned In Good Samaritan Campaign

Between now and December 7, the first month of the Good Samaritan buying campaign, it is expected that a number of the businesses and merchants whose co-operation made possible the awarding of $8,000 in cash to churches and charities of the city over a period of six months in return for buying and payment considerations, will avail themselves of the first double-voting day feature of the campaign.

On one day of their own selection, merchants or businesses which can logically do so are privileged to declare one double voting day, when all purchases made on that given day may count for double vote value, or count for twice as much as the same expenditure on any normal day in votes for churches or charities.

The Good Samaritan campaign, which is a regular Saturday feature of The Constitution and which will continue so for the duration of the campaign, will carry any such announcements of double voting days for participating businesses and the members of the many churches and charities in the competition for the substantial weekly cash awards and the final awards at the close of the campaign are urged to watch the Good Samaritan page each Saturday, and especially next Saturday for any such announcements.

While the campaign is rounding out its first month, interest in the constructive movement designed to stimulate buying and payment of accounts is gaining rapidly.

Some of the churches which entered the campaign in its early stages are perfecting their organizations with a view to procuring the maximum of benefit from their organized effort to share substantially in the cash prize of $8,000.

Others which have, through their officers or women's organizations, announced their intention of entering the campaign are expected to enter before the close of the first month's period.

Apprehension on the part of some of the smaller churches and organizations that they could have no chance in any competition with any of the larger organizations was dispelled last week, it is pointed out by the campaign manager, when the Brookhaven Baptist church, with a membership of only several hundred, succeeded in capturing first place in the weekly awards.

It is pointed out again that votes accruing from purchases at any of the stores or businesses in the campaign this or any other week may not necessarily be voted during the week of the transaction, that these evi-

Proverb Contestants Are in Home Stretch of Prize Race

Back Pictures Ordered by Mail Will Be Sent Same Day.

BY THE PROVERB CONTEST EDITOR.

Players of The Constitution's $2,200 proverb game are streaking down the home stretch. The finish-line, represented by December 7, looms ahead. With the deadline for submitting sets six days away, the old P. E. and Miss Alter, who drew the contest pictures, are standing by to render assistance. Players who wish may query them at any phase of the game by calling at the Constitution—by mail, or by telephoning Walnut 6565.

For the convenience of readers who have lost or destroyed any of their pictures, and who need replacements in order to complete their sets, all of the back pictures, from No. 1 to No. 50, inclusive, will continue to be available through next Monday night. These pictures are described elsewhere under the heading of "Contest Information." Mail orders for back pictures will be filled and forwarded the same day they are received, so that sets can be submitted before the deadline.

First Taste of Reorganization Is Felt by Employees of State

BY R. E. POWELL.
Georgia's state government, long a cumbersome thing to people having business with it and to the taxpayers who bear its expenses, Tuesday got its first taste of the oncoming reorganization made possible by the last general assembly.

Concretely, the initial brush came in the notices that went to a number of employees in departments, some of whom were told that their services would not be required after January 1, when reorganization becomes effective, and others who were told that their next year's salaries would be slashed.

Governor Russell, himself, who paragonized and to whose final arbitration is left many of the uncertainties of the new law, was busy considering a number of appointments yet to be made and puzzling over space demands already being made as a result of the rearrangement to be made with the beginning of the new year.

The chief executive already has named the board of regents. Within a few days he is expected to announce the personnel of the board of control. And, probably before Christmas, he will designate the chairman of the state tax commission and appoint four new attorneys general.

The governor met Monday with the state board of welfare, which held its last meeting. Functions after January 1 of this board will be transferred to the control board. Members of the retiring board are J. S. Kennedy, Atlanta, chairman; Mrs. J. A. Thomas, Montezuma; Mrs. Emilio Suarez, Cuthbert; Dr. P. Y. Duckett, Cornelia; and H. Cliff Hatcher, Waynesboro.

day of the "dole" in England, that

"the common man appreciates the fact that you cannot continue to milk accumulated wealth and pass it on to the idlers."

The dole, he said, is "something that has been fastened on the country and it will be a long time before the country gets rid of it."

"The pendulum has swung one way," he said. "It must now swing far over to the other side."

CAMELS are KEPT Fresh!

You probably know that heat is used in the treatment of all cigarette tobaccos.

But you know too that excessive heat can destroy freshness and fragrance.

That's why there could be no truly fresh cigarette except for scientifically developed methods of applying heat.

Reynolds is proud of having discovered and perfected methods for getting the benefits of heat treatments and still avoiding ever parching or toasting.

With every assurance we tell you, Camels are truly fresh. They're made fresh—not parched or toasted—and then they're kept fresh in the Camel Humidor Pack.

If you wish to know why the swing to Camels is nationwide and steadily growing—switch to them for just one day—then leave them, if you can.

Made FRESH — Kept FRESH

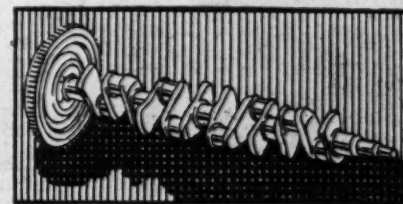

Take a leaf from the Industry's Book: "WATCH HUDSON!"

"—it has given rise throughout the industry year after year to the meaningful saying: Watch Hudson!"

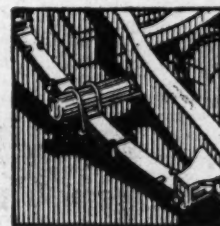

insulated bodies and a host of other features that are now standard high quality practice.

In one great factory so efficient that it has greater production capacity per foot of floor space than any other in the industry, Hudson has kept and is keeping steadily ahead of the procession.

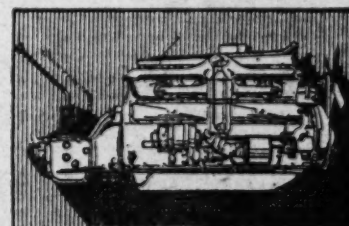

The famous Hudson compensated inherently balanced crankshaft is the most accurately balanced crankshaft in use today—so smooth and vibrationless in action that it eliminates the need for cushioning vibration as needed in the case of many other cars.

Do not think that this pioneering ability on the part of Hudson, this faculty of "pacing the industry," has gone unnoted and unheeded. On the contrary it has given rise throughout the industry year after year to the meaningful saying "Watch Hudson!"

Hudson controls the patents on splayed springs, under which the rear springs of both Hudson and Essex cars are set at an angle with the frame, preventing sideways and greatly increasing comfort. The springs themselves, like the frame and the whole understructure of the car, are heavy-duty built, greatly oversize in comparison with other cars in comparable price range.

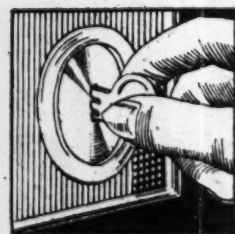

The Hudson and Essex cars now being exhibited in our showrooms typify the wisdom of this in the engineering and structural advantages they reveal which will not be generally available on other cars for a year or more from now. Take a leaf from the book of the industry; examine Hudson and Essex before you decide what car to buy; to make a motor car purchase otherwise is literally to spend your good money with your eyes shut. Hudson Motor Car Company, Detroit, Michigan.

Hudson and Essex high-speed engines are the highest compression power units in use today, operating on standard fuels. The eight-cylinder Hudson "Greater Eight" develops 87 horsepower at 3600 r.p.m.; the Essex "Super Six," 60 horsepower at 3300 r.p.m. So efficient is Hudson and Essex engine design, owners may use ordinary gasoline without annoyance from engine knock.

It is a truism that almost all progress proceeds from the independent mind.

This is as true in the automobile business as in the fields of literature or art.

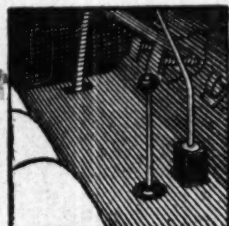

Startix, the Automatic Self-Starter—a new safety feature available at slight extra cost—makes Hudson and Essex motors stall-proof. Should you stall your motor on hills or in traffic, Startix restarts it—instantly and automatically. Operated by the ignition lock, Startix starts your motor the moment you turn the switch, and keeps it going as long as the ignition is "on."

Thus Hudson—one of the few great independents flourishing in the motor car industry—justifies its success by a fertility of idea and invention unique even in this fast-moving business.

On the long roll of contributions to the present-day art of automobile building, Hudson has more than sixty important "first's" to its credit.

Hudson was first to build Sedan and Coach bodies, and perfected the machine-method enabling low-cost closed bodies in universal use today.

Selective Free Wheeling—Hudson and Essex drivers can "select" to free wheel or not, according to the road. On the straightaway and rolling highways you can enjoy the floating speed and gas-economy of free wheeling. Descending steep grades where you need the engine's extra braking power, a convenient control near the clutch lever throws the motor into conventional gear—instantly—without clashing. An optional feature.

Hudson was first to build the compensated inherently balanced crankshaft and the non-detonating cylinder head essential to the modern high-speed, high-compression engine.

Hudson was first to use the splayed rear springs, the tapered frame, radiator shutters, aluminum pistons,

The Lubricated Cork Cushion Clutch is an exclusive patented feature of Hudson and Essex cars. A clutch is strictly a friction device. Cork is the finest friction material known. Lubrication is absolutely necessary to preserve the durability of any friction surface. Lubricated cork inserts in the Hudson and Essex clutch "cushion" as the clutch engages, giving a soft, velvety shift, without jar or chatter, especially when going from free wheeling into gear.

MEREDITH'S STORY ON MURDERS PROBED

Fugitive Says Girl "Could Clear Up" Three Maryland Killings.

MACON, Ga., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Police Tuesday were seeking additional light on the statement of George Meredith, Baltimore, Md., fugitive, that "his girl" in Baltimore could "clear up three murders if she wanted to."

Meredith made the statement to a police guard, but declined to name the girl or mention the specific murders he had in mind. Efforts to get him to talk further were unavailing.

Seriously wounded with his own pistol during an attempted holdup several weeks ago, Meredith went to the home of a brother here, and was turned over to the police. He has since been slowly recovering from his wounds.

Two other men who escaped from a

Miss Smith Honors Miss Catherine Flagler.

Mrs. Carleton Smith entertained at luncheon Tuesday at her home on The Prado in Analey Park in compliment to Miss Catherine Flagler, a popular debutante. The guests were seated at an exquisitely appointed table carrying out the color scheme of pink. In the center was a crystal bowl of pink roses and crystal candlesticks held unlighted tapers. Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Thorne Flagler, the debutante's mother, were girlhood friends and made their debuts in Atlanta society the same year, being regarded as two of the most popular and attractive debutantes of a generation ago.

Mrs. Henry B. Scott To Give Travelogue Lecture on Tuesday

Tuesday afternoon, December 8, at 3 o'clock Mrs. Henry Bernard Scott will speak to an appreciative audience at the home of Mrs. A. Ten Eyck Brown, 128 East Seventeenth street. The occasion will be in the nature of a silver tea sponsored by circles of the Woman's Auxiliary of St. Luke's church, including St. Andrew's circle, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Edgar Neely, and St. Anne's, under that of Mrs. D. M. Dockstader. Mrs. Scott's subject will be the world cruise, lasting four and a half months, upon which she and Mr. Scott embarked just a year ago, sailing from New York on the Belgenland.

An interesting adventure is in store for travel-loving Atlantans—both those fortunate ones who have actually fared forth to the strange places of earth, and those others, equally eager, who must do their sightseeing through the eyes of the mind. This will be in no sense the usual cut and dried lecture, but a delightfully informal travelogue illustrated with lantern slides. Mrs. Scott possesses a vivid, sparkling style which carries her listeners along with her into lands of romance—down through the Panama canal, past Honolulu, Java, Sumatra, Ceylon, including mysterious Bangkok in Siam, where Douglas Fairbanks, who was a member of this party, disembarked for some big-game hunting. On through China and Japan to India, with a five-day trip into the interior to Kipling's land. One of the highlights of this was an audience with Gandhi. From western Asia the party entered Europe, lingering while in those Isles of Greece made famous of old by Homer, and more recently by Richard Halliburton. Many notables were on board the Belgenland, among them Professor and Mrs. Einstein, whom Mr. and Mrs. Scott found to be eager and charming travelers.

Mrs. Scott will give her talk in the basement studio of Mrs. Ten Eyck Brown, who has graciously loaned its use for the occasion. So many interesting things, including Junior League activities, have gone forward from time to time in this studio that it needs no introduction to those forming the cultural life of the city. Adding to the pleasure of those attending Tuesday will be a group of songs sung by Mrs. James Christopher Brown. In addition to the members of St. Andrew's and St. Anne's circles, anyone interested in hearing Mrs. Scott's travelogue is invited to be present.

Hair—Camak.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 1.—The marriage of Miss Arlie Opal Hair, of this city, to James X. Camak, of Athens, Ga., November 27, was quietly solemnized Friday in Aiken, S. C., with Judge R. W. Taylor officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Camak returned to Augusta immediately and apprised the bride's parents of their marriage, and Sunday their friends were told and congratulations were received at the home of the bride's parents, 1837 Warren street, where the young couple are making their home.

Mrs. Camak is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul S. Hair. Mr. Camak is the only child of Mr. James W. Camak, of Athens. His mother was the lovely Josie Smith, of Augusta and on both maternal and paternal sides represents prominent old Georgia families. He is a grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Smythe and nephew of the late Mrs. John Foxhall Sturman and Mrs. Leroy Hankinson is his aunt.

Miss Jane King Makes Debut At Reception Given at Home

Miss Jane King, daughter of Mrs. C. Spurgeon King, who made her debut yesterday at an elaborate tea given by her mother at her handsome home in Druid Hills. Mrs. King entertained again last evening in compliment to her debutante daughter at a supper-dance at which members of this season's Debutante Club and their escorts assembled. Miss King is one of the most popular of Atlanta's 1931-32 debutantes, and throughout the fall and winter she has been honored at a series of social gayeties.

The spacious, handsome residence of Mrs. C. Spurgeon King, on Ponce de Leon avenue in Druid Hills, was the scene of the reception at which Miss Jane King, lovely debutante daughter of the household, made her formal bow to society yesterday. Superb yellow and white chrysanthemums arranged in pedestal vases before a background of palms formed the effective bow in the drawing room where Mrs. King and Miss King received several hundred members of fashionable society. Adding a sentimental note to the decorations was the array of floral bouquets and baskets filled with flowers sent to Miss King by a circle of admiring friends desiring to pay tribute to her youth and beauty.

Exquisite Decorations. Tea was served in the dining room, the table being overlaid with an exquisite cloth of real lace veiling yellow satin. A silver basket holding flowers in yellow, bronze and white was used as the artistic centerpiece.

Morning Musicales Takes Place Today At Woman's Club

Atlanta Music Club, of which Mrs. Walter H. Bedard is president, will present its December morning musicale this morning at 10:45 o'clock in the auditorium of the Atlanta Woman's Club, with Mrs. Mabelle S. Wall, prominent teacher and music editor of the Atlanta Journal, as program chairman. Mrs. Thad Morrison is general chairman of the morning musicale series. Mrs. Wall will present Miss Ardis Colby, youthful and talented Atlanta pianist, assisted by Miss Margaret Battle, soprano, well-known church and concert singer, and Miss Ethel Beyer, accompanist.

Miss Colby has recently returned from two years' study in Germany with the world-famous teacher, Breithaupt, having made her debut at Beethoven Saal, the Carnegie hall of Berlin, winning her diploma from the Stern Conservatory. She was to have made her debut as a concert pianist presented by Breithaupt, but was forced to return to the United States on account of the critical illness of a member of her family. Her first appearance in concert since her return was Friday afternoon, when she complimented the sponsors of her foreign study at a recital at the home of Mrs. John M. Slaton, delighting a large group of friends and music lovers.

Miss Margaret Battle, soprano and choir director of North Avenue Presbyterian church, is a noted teacher and a soloist who needs no introduction to her extensive pupils. She has studied with leading vocal teachers of the day, including Isador Luckstone and Milka Ternina, and later with Vittoria Morini in Milan. She will sing groups of songs accompanied by Miss Ethel Beyer.

Miss Beyer is one of the best known organists and choir directors of Atlanta, with a reputation as an accompanist that is not limited locally, but she has been chosen as accompanist for many of our finest artists who have sung in the musical centers of Europe as well as this country. She has recently returned from having accompanied Jeannette Vreeland, famous soprano, on her southern tour. The public is invited to attend the morning musicale of the club, admission being 50 cents.

Tall silver sconces holding yellow tapers were placed on the table.

Coffee was served in the library and the coffee tables were overlaid with lace covers and held silver baskets of yellow roses as the graceful centerpiece. Pouring coffee were Mrs. Cody Laird Jr., and Misses Margaret Tate, Hannah Sterne and Palmer Dallas.

Assisting in entertaining were Mesdames Charles M. Marshall, Goodloe Yancey, DeWitt King, Sam Johnson, Robert Brittain, of Detroit; J. W. Patterson, J. V. Pierson, Eugene McCarty and Miss Marion Dean.

Members of the debutante coterie assisting in entertaining were Misses Mamie Raine, Harriett Wynne, Nancy Frederick, Jaquelin Moore, Louise Moore, Margaret Underwood, Helen Bivings, Josephine Richardson, Anne Ridley, Jane Sharp, Helen Smith, Frances Clarke, Violet Graham, Elizabeth Thompson, Anne Wynn Fleming, Catherine Flagler, Jane de Bruyn Kops, Norma McNair, Betty Timmons, Ida Thomas, Mary Crenshaw, Clare Jones and Gardner Gundry. The titian beauty of Miss King was enhanced by her costume of white satin embroidered in gold and made on graceful lines. She wore a shoulder-bouquet of orchids and carried an arm spray of gardenias, orchids and valley lilies.

Mrs. King was handsomely gowned in pale gray chiffon and her flowers were orchids. In the evening Mrs. King entertained at a buffet supper, the guest list comprising members of the Debutante Club and their escorts who were invited to meet Miss King.

Athletic Club Management Plans Bridge Lectures and Tournament

The management of the Atlanta Athletic Club announces a series of contract bridge lectures to be given next week by Alonzo Johnson, well-known bridge expert, as a compliment to the club members and their friends. The first of the series of lectures will be given at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening, December 8, the other lectures to be given at the same hour on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings, December 9, 10 and 11. The lectures will be held in a private dining room on the fourth floor of the town club and will assemble a large throng of Atlanta society among the bridge enthusiasts.

As a brilliant climax to the lecture series a bridge tournament will be held at 8 o'clock Monday evening, December 21, at the club. Mr. Johnson will direct the tournament in contract bridge, and for those members who do not play contract, an auction bridge tournament will be held at the same time. A number of handsome prizes will be awarded the winners at the conclusion of the tournaments, adding interest and gaiety to the event, which will be among the outstanding social affairs of the club's calendar for December.

Mr. Johnson, who is one of Atlanta's most prominent bridge teachers, is an exponent of the Culbertson method of contract and is a graduate of the Culbertson school in New York city. He has recently returned from a stay of several years of study at the school and he has been honored by being named associate director of the institution.

The Athletic club's management requests that members make reservations for the lecture series as early as possible.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

In one of New York's lesser art exhibit galleries there is now an exhibition of paintings by a group of artists known as "An American Group." An artist with a Japanese name and birth, but thoroughly Americanized, is represented by five canvases, each of them a piece of glorified ugliness. The most striking of the pictures is one called "Back Yard." It shows the back of a high tenement house, decorated by a rickety fire escape and a clothesline hung with multi-colored garments; a lean-to garage which only half conceals a rattle-trap automobile of ancient vintage and well-known make; a patch of uncut grass, a high bush of Scotch broom, a neglected elm tree, its beauty marred by many dead branches. These are the things with which an artist sets about to make a pleasing picture, the ugliest things in American landscapes, the things that speak of drudgery, of insufficient income, of poor housing, of neglected property, of sparsely planted shrubbery, of ill kept spaces, of makeshift life.

Yet so clever is he as an artist that he has taken these ugly things and with the magician's touch has transformed them into things of beauty. The gray of the tenement house is soft, there is strength in the iron of the fire escape. There is gay motion and color in the clothes that flutter on the line. Even the lean-to garage has a happy-go-lucky appearance that some people have when they are shabby and run down and don't have to keep up appearance, a sort of relaxed indifference attitude, that is altogether amusing. It is summer time in this picture, and the green of the grass and the tree is cool and lush. There is beauty in every line of the drawing, yet faithfulness, too. How comes this miracle, this magic touch which turns a sorry and sordid scene into an inspired picture? Is it the idea of beauty in the mind of the artist which he superimposes on his subject and we look at the sight not through our beauty-dulled eyes but through his beauty-sharpened eyes?

It is pretty certain that all of us do not have the artist's seeing eye, as regards physical or moral beauty, but we should all be happier if we could imitate his method. For we must look at things with back yards, literally and figuratively. They are not in themselves beautiful or attractive but they can be treated in such way that they are not "eye sores." Not many of us are painting our life pictures without the necessity of dealing with objects that are ugly, without the necessity of putting those objects in a prominent place in our canvases. How are we doing it? I wonder.

I know a woman who has so little of what we call beauty in her life that I shudder when I think of her. She is lonely, she is old, she is poor, she is deaf, she has an incurable disease, yet with all of those ugly things in her life she paints a pleasing picture for people to gaze at. Why? She's a moral artist. She's a hand woman, young, pretty, petted, spoiled, who makes life miserable for her husband because he won't move to the city to live. She can see nothing in her small town that is either beautiful or desirable and nothing in her situation that is compensatory for her disappointment.

Before we have done with it each of us learns that life is not made up of a long series of beautiful experiences. No matter how well we may order our lives, no matter in what pleasant places our lines may be cast, there is sorrow and disappointment and ugliness and better to be on the journey. The time comes when, no matter how happy loving and beauty seeking we may be, we have difficulty in finding it, so hidden is it by exterior ugliness. But it is always inherent, to some extent, in the lives of our fellows and the seeing eye can always manage to detect it. There is always some secret ambition in every life that breeds beauty. There is always some spiritual quality in every life that is beauty. And you and I must find it.

Culbertson on Contract Proving the Rule.

BY ELY CULBERTSON, World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

Rules generally accepted can be said to be the experience of the human race as to the best course to follow under certain specified conditions. This does not necessarily mean that a rule will work all the time. It is sufficient to make it a good rule that it has proved its worth in the majority of cases to which it is applied. The basis of rules laid down in Contract Bridge are the same as those formed by society in other lines of endeavor. They are good rules because they prove their worth in the majority of cases, but in Bridge, as in life, the alert player of the game must be awake to the exceptions which constantly crop up. Neither the rules of bidding nor the rules of successful play are immutable. They are, like the railroad time-tables, "subject to change without notice." Today's hands centers around a divergence from ordinary practice and hence the rule when applied to defense.

Miss Williams Gives Methodist Missionary Women Recital in New York

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Brilliant and distinguished was the appreciative assemblage, which gathered Tuesday evening at the Barbizon-Plaza, in New York city, for a southern evening given by Louise Alice Williams, a daughter of Georgia, famed for impersonations and folk lore—the cabin stories and plantation folk songs in the old negro dialect. Miss Williams was born at the home of her grandparents, Oak Grove, near Augusta, Ga., so-called from the grove of great oaks surrounding the old place, and was educated at the Tubman High school, and attending Tulane University in New Orleans.

She collected the original material of her program from a remnant, left of the old-time negroes, a few of whom still dwell in their cabin homes amid the cotton fields of the land about Oak Grove. For several years Miss Williams has been touring the country, from coast to coast, with her preservation of the old negro folk stories of her native southland. Atlanta was Miss Williams' home until the death of her mother, Mrs. Sarah Byne Williams, a few years since. These southern evenings are presented in an historical costume, a beautiful old gown of amber Tussock silk, fashioned with a tiny lace basque. The gown once belonged to her Virginia kinswoman, Cornelia Randolph, granddaughter of Thomas Jefferson, the third president of the United States. Patronesses and patrons were Assistant Secretary of War Hon. F. Trubee Davidson and Mrs. Davidson, Mrs. Henry P. Davidson, Major General and Mrs. Hanson E. El., Major General and Mrs. J. G. Harbord, Major General and Mrs. Lucius R. Holbrook, Major General William N. Haskell, Dr. Robert N. Johnson, Rev. Elliot Darlington, Admiral Sir Charles Dana Gibson, Douglas Robinson, Oliver Harriman, Horace L. Hotchkiss, James Roosevelt, H. Townsend Martin, Charles G. Ayers, Claude W. Kress, Harry Harkness Flagler, and Miss Dorothy Schieffelin, and Canon George Franklin Nelson, and Mr. and Mrs. Gavin Durr High and Mr. and Mrs. Bainbridge Colby.

Circle Program.

A "Margaret fund" program will be presented by the Business and Professional Women's Circle of the First Baptist church this evening at 7:30 o'clock at the church. An address, "Our Pearl," will be delivered by Mrs. N. T. Henry, and the devotional, "Glory to God on Earth Peace," with the song, "Jesus, Keep Me Near the Cross," will be offered by Miss Bessie Patterson. Mrs. Charles Bellinger will render a solo, "Tender Heart," "Why My Parents Remain at the Front," will be presented by Scott Patterson, Africa; John Quarles, Africa; Lois Hart, Chile; Harris Anderson, China.

The Marriage Racket

By VINA DELMAR

INSTALLMENT XXXVIII.

It took Irma another week to get over the delightful shock of having a job. When she settled down to normal she looked the situation over with a critical eye. Approximately four hundred a month was the present income. One hundred out for rent, eighty for Miss March, fifty toward her debt to Bill. That made two hundred and thirty. Of course she didn't have to send Bill as much as fifty dollars. As a matter of fact, she didn't have to send him anything, but whether it came under the heading of honor or self-indulgence the fact remained that she intended to send him fifty dollars every month that it was humanly possible. Now, that was a big job. The remaining forty-two dollars a week? Out of that must come food for three, gas, electricity, telephone, garfure, clothes, laundry, an occasional gift for the baby, and possibly doctors' bills. Well, she'd have to get by. There was a hundred and fifty dollars from Bill's original stake in a savings bank around the corner. She had put it there the day after she had signed her contract at the club. And there it would stay till the darkest hour of the darkest day. Meanwhile she could go easy on the gas and electricity, forget she had a phone and walk where possible instead of riding. There were no facilities for washing anything but small objects in the kitchenette. It was fortunate that the bed and table linens were supplied spick and span weekly by the apartment house management. The baby, she thought with thanksgiving, had plenty of clothes. She was less fortunately placed, but the absence of a social life made attractive clothes wholly unnecessary.

By her third week at the Club Denise Irma was fairly sure that no one of importance would see Carlos and herself and whisk them into a show. The patrons were mainly suburban gentry on a bender, with characters from the lower fringe of Broadway scattered about for relief. A few minor celebrities had dropped in, but they were from the sporting world and from the newspaper field. So much for that dream.

On Thursdays Miss March was free from dinner time till 10:30. It was a paltry amount of recreation, but it was all she required and all that Irma could give. As it was every Thursday saw Irma with a blinding headache due to worry lest Miss March overstay her time.

It was on a Thursday evening while Irma lay on her daybed reading the evening paper that the baby coughed. She ran in to look at him. He was not feverish. Perhaps just a tickling in the throat. Before Irma left that night he had coughed many times and when she looked in on him at 5:30 his head felt hot and he was wakeful. She returned to the living room and dozed till 8 o'clock, then from the telephone book she picked the doctor who lived nearest and called him.

He proved to be a gruff, middle-aged man and one with very little time to spare. "Hm, slight temperature," he said. "Have this prescription made up. Give it to him every three hours. Don't give him any solid foods. Keep him in bed. Telephone me at 6 o'clock tonight."

All the thoughts that tortured Irma whenever the baby caught cold gathered about her now in full force. Cold was a harbinger of so many dread illnesses. That cough was tight and rasping. Now would be a fine time for a serious seige. What a sap she'd been to expose the baby to such circumstances. Who knew anything about the doctor?

All day long she tended the baby, sending Miss March to sit in the living room. He would take no broth or oatmeal water. At 11 he did was cough. At 5:30 she called the doctor. He had not returned to his office yet. At 6 he was not in. At 6:15 she told him there was no improvement.

At 8:30 when his office hours were over he came again. After a day of distracted mothers he was in no mood to be polite to another one. At $3 a call a man can be expected to give strength, courage and good cheer with every call.

"What's the child doing?" he asked. "Coughing," Irma replied. "Well, he was doing that this morning, wasn't he?"

"Yes, but I expected it to loosen up some by now."

"It hasn't, eh? Put some mustard plasters on his chest. Know how to mix 'em? Get a pencil. I'll give you the proportions to use."

He gave her the proportions for mixing the old faithful mustard plaster. "There, stick that on his chest every four hours. Keep it on till the skin starts to react, gets pink, I mean. Take it off then or it'll blister his chest. Call me tomorrow if there's no improvement. Thank you, O, haven't you anything smaller than that?"

Miss March, having just been paid, was able to furnish $3 and the doctor with a brief "Thank you, goodnight," was gone.

It was hard to pull herself away that night. At 1 o'clock Miss March intended to give him the second mustard plaster. Would she be able to do it without burning him? Probably not. And was it only a cold? Did that doctor know what he was talking about? Poor baby, the harsh grating sound of his cough was terrible to hear. His throat must be raw and painful. Irma went the Club Denise feeling miserably heavy of heart.

At half past 1 Irma went into the patients' ladies' room and telephoned home. Miss March said that she had applied the plaster, had not burned the child's chest, and that he could not go to sleep because of the coughing. Neither could she, Miss March added.

"Well, don't go to sleep," Irma ordered. "Suppose he should strangle with the cough. You stay up. When I get home you can go to bed and sleep all day."

"All right," said Miss March. Promptly upon Irma's arrival at 5:30 Miss March went to bed. She said she was dead tired. Irma could understand that. She was dead tired too. She sent Miss March to the bedroom and the exhausted lady slept till half past 3 that afternoon. Then Irma went to sleep.

When she awakened at half past 8 the world had a rosier hue. She felt rested and refreshed, but best of all, the baby's cough had loosened greatly. His temperature was normal and the bad willfully taken some broth.

"I hadn't been a thing under the sun except a cold. Still for a day or so it had been alarming enough to make her stop and think. Where the hell was she going, anyhow? Not her so much but the baby. Where was he going? What was his future? Certainly she was never going to be a tremendous wage-earner. Even a good salary in show business was only temporary.

And was she going to be able to earn a good salary? Carlos thought so, but then he was not a great one for facing facts. Probably by saving carefully while the sun shone it would be possible for her to always keep and feed herself and little Martin. But giving him a place to sleep and food to eat wasn't enough. She wanted so much more than that for him.

He should have his own little room, oceans of amusing, instructive toys, some one to prepare nourishing, well-cooked meals, some one else—very efficient—to care for him, and when he was ill he should have good physicians whose reputations were well known and reasonable. The best was none too good for him. The roses in his cheeks should become pinker, there should be a glowing tan upon the little body and a brighter, clearer look in his eyes. Would he have to spend this coming summer in the stuffy little apartment and every other summer in apartments like it? Was there nothing better ahead of him than sketchily educated nursemaids who neglected to clean his table silver and who couldn't answer questions intelligently?

Wonder What a Watch Thinks About?—Consider Yours.

Well, I hope they do right by me today. I tried to look real appealing yesterday when the old boy strapped me on his wrist and took a look at my face. I tried to say, "Puu-leeze go down there today and stick in a vote for me."

I like a change as well as anyone else. The only fun I've had this year is that time I was down at the repair shop for a couple of days.

Things get pretty dull for a watch. Eastern Standard Time would be a great break—well, I don't mean a break. You know what I mean.

I was talking to the kitchen clock last night. You know what she said?

Well, what if you had a cook peering at your face every now and then during the day and then running in to put on some beans.

That kitchen clock is just dying to have a new time of the day before she has to look at that cook's face again.

I wonder why people don't get handsome cooks. They don't take a clock's feelings into consideration at all.

There will certainly be a lot of happy clocks and watches if they get a change. Suppose you had been ticking away all your life at just one thing? You bet you'd like a chance at something new.

Life gets pretty monotonous for us watches and clocks. Suppose you went through life being stared at.

Sometimes you wish you were idle so Satan would find things for idle hands to do. Gosh! You don't know what fun clocks and watches have when they do break down and Satan starts in finding things for idle hands to do.

What fun we have! But that's just now and then. Consider your watch's main spring. Give it Eastern Standard Time today. And then listen at all the happy little ticks tomorrow.

MY OLD KENTUCKY HOME.

Have you heard about the traveling man who went into Knoxville whistling "My Old Kentucky Home?"

They are using him for a tackling dummy out on the lot where the Tennessee football players are getting ready for the New York University football game.

Had it not been for that pesky tie with Kentucky, a team which the Knoxville, Tennesseans, insist is three touchdowns inferior, the Vols would not now be practicing for the N. Y. U. game. By no means, no. They would be practicing for the game in the Rose Bowl.

That game on Saturday in the Yankee stadium looms (really, it does) as one of the great games of the year. The New York University eleven is a real football team. And if it plays the type of game it did against Georgia it will kick that Tennessee team around a lot. The boys will have to scuffle plenty to win. At that I rather like the chances of the Volunteers. That is, without knowing what sort of temper they are in. If someone will whistle "My Old Kentucky Home" to them before the game they should go out and win.

The game at New York will be one of two intersectional contests on that day. The Tulane Green Wave will be weaving against the Washington State Cougars. And while an upset there would be just in keeping with a dizzy football season, it is not expected. No upset is, for that matter, else they would not be upsets. But this Tulane eleven seems to have it for any sort of occasion.

Georgia will be riding the cushions toward the coast when the Cougars and the Wave are trying out plays. The south is closing out this season in an intersectional frenzy. And Tulane is expected to come along and start 1932 off on New Year's Day in the Bowl.

The Rose Bowl committee is waiting. What with the west having kicked the east around all fall they may be figuring that even the inferior Cougars can take the best the south has.

Although the south, with Alabama and Tech, should have "learned" them by now. The coast, however, is a tough section to "learn" anything.

NO RAIN, CALIFORNIA.

It does rain in California. Often. Especially in winter around Los Angeles. Despite the fact that your view of the rivers out there may have been places where one would get dusty walking across.

And Georgia does not want any mud on the day the team goes into action against the Southern Californians. A good team will win in the mud or on dry land but mud does hurt these Notre Dame systems.

They are built on a comparatively intricate handling of the ball; deception and delay. Many plays are run from a spin or a half spin.

This undoubtedly had much to do with Notre Dame's loss to the Army and the tie with Northwestern. Both were played on sloppy fields.

Rockne, of course, was ahead of his coaching products. He had gone in for a lot of double spinner stuff. And it was retained this season. There was a great deal of the showman in Rockne. He always had something spectacular. And the double spinners didn't work so well in the mud. They wouldn't have worked any better had Rockne been there.

Georgia, on a dry field, will be able to give the Southern California team a battle. There is a great deal of sympathy being aroused in some quarters where a lop-sided score is predicted in favor of the coast team. It could be very easily.

But give the Georgia team a dry field and some inspiration—and they can come through.

NO ACCLIMATIZATION.

There will be no time spent in acclimatizing the Georgians. They get there late Tuesday and they play on Saturday.

CATFISH SMITH FEARED VICTIM OF INFLUENZA

Star End Is Expected To Leave With Team, However.

By Al Smith,

ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Vernon (Catfish) Smith, Georgia's great end, is confined to the Crawford W. Long infirmary here with what physicians fear may be influenza.

Although Smith's trouble has been diagnosed as "flu," prompt attention and a thorough rest at the university infirmary are expected to bring the All-American end back to sound health before the Bulldogs leave for Southern California Saturday afternoon. Dr. H. I. Reynolds, Georgia physician, declared tonight.

The Catfish was well enough to see Captain Ausie Downes and other Bulldogs at the infirmary today. His confinement was largely in the nature of a precautionary measure, Dr. Reynolds said.

Jack (The Ripper) Roberts, Dick Maxwell, reserve end, and Mack Crenshaw, another end, are still on the Bulldogs injured list, although they are expected to be able to get in a little light practice by Thursday. Weddington Kelley, Georgia's other regular end, is also under the care of a physician, although he will be able to practice Thursday.

Norman To Play A. D. C. in Havana

HAVANA, Dec. 1.—(AP)—An international football battle here December 12 will serve as appetizer to the Cuban national amateur season opening late this month, it was revealed today. Coach Nick Pons of the local A. D. C. eleven, announced that the team had been completed with Norman Junior College of Norman Park, Ga., for the game.

The A. D. C. team, which includes many former stars of the closed University of Havana, it favored this year to capture the Cuban championship, long held by the Cuban Athletic Club. Norman tied the Athletic Club, 7 to 7, when they played here in 1930.

Appearing in the Americans' line-up are two Cubans, from Xavier University stars. They are Tino Argimon and Candido Gil. Pons also said he had been advised several former Oglethorpe and Howard College players would start for the visitors.

The Norman Junior team will arrive in Havana the morning of December 12. Playing that afternoon they will be allowed two or three days to look about Havana before sailing for Miami, where December 18 they will play the freshmen of the University of Miami.

Ted Goodrich Bows To Florida Fighter

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Wilbur Stokes, Lakeland, cuffed Ted Goodrich, of Atlanta, about four rounds to take an easy decision here tonight. Both weighed 152.

Despite an eight-count knockdown in the fourth, Stokes easily was master of the way, except for the round. A roundhouse left to the midsection in that frame, however, curled Stokes up like a water lily.

Lakeland youngster stood off and speared Goodrich with rights and lefts at will the other nine rounds, however.

Columbia Captain Picks Star Eleven

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Captain Ralph Hewitt, quarterback of the Columbia University football team, today picked an all-opponents team, selected from those squads the Lions met on the gridiron this year.

Hewitt's selections:
TACKLES—Syracuse, and Martinez, Cornell.
TACKLES—McKeesey, Brown, and Burge, Virginia.
GUARDS—Hoffman, Dartmouth, and Shuman, Cornell.
CENTER—Fennell, Cornell.
QUARTERBACK—Morton, Dartmouth.
HALFBACKS—Farraro, Cornell, and Moran, Syracuse.
FULLBACK—McCall, Dartmouth.

Harold Lloyd Leader Of Tournament Body

AGUA CALIENTE, Lower California, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Harold Lloyd, film comedian and golf enthusiast, accepted today the invitation of the Agua Caliente Club to head the tournament of the $15,000 Agua Caliente open January 12, 13, 14 and 15.

Diego Lopez, professional of the club, tendered the invitation to Lloyd and announced his acceptance.

Lloyd's committee will settle any technical questions which arise during tournament play.

Thomasville Plays Moultrie Hi Friday

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Dec. 1.—Thomasville and Moultrie High school football teams will meet here Friday in the last Southwest Georgia High School conference game.

Moultrie has lost a couple of games and Thomasville an equal number—the latter was defeated by Valdosta, 7-0, and Albany, 14-0. The rivalry that has always existed between Thomasville and Moultrie, however, makes their meeting here this week an event of keen sports interest.

Southern Stars On Sasse's Team

WEST POINT, N. Y., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Major Ralph I. Sasse, Army's head football coach, named his eastern players today in selecting his All-American eleven for 1931.

His choices follow:

Ends—Orsi, of Colgate, and Dalrymple, of Tulane.

Tackles—Hardy, of Harvard, and Quastie, of Pittsburgh.

Guards—Sommerfeld, of Army, and Hickman, of Tennessee.

Center—Daugherty, of Pittsburgh.

Quarterback—Wood, of Harvard.

Backs—Schwartz, of Notre Dame; Monnett, of Michigan State, and Pinckert, of Southern California.

Coach Sasse said the team was in good shape for their final game.

Except for Fountain, whose shoulder was hurt in the California game, the team is in good condition. Shaw Buck will be waiting in Gainesville and will play Saturday," he said.

Fountain said his team would have a long workout today, but that no scrimmaging would be held this week.

The Florida team was scheduled for a workout in Birmingham yesterday afternoon, but after the players had donned uniforms, a hard rain swept their proposed practice field and Coach Buck discarded his workout plans.

Florida began its long trip from Gainesville, N. Y., on Monday, stopping over in Atlanta November 21 for their game with Georgia Tech and then heading for the west coast.

DISAPPOINTED.

Most of the Florida boys expressed disappointment at losing the U. C. L. A. game, saying many of the breaks went against them and that they outplayed the U. C. L. A. in most departments of the game. But, as they smilingly admitted, they pay off on the touchdowns.

Coach Bachman said Clarence Phil, a tackle, would serve as captain against Kentucky, and that later the boys would elect a final captain for the season. No regular captain was elected at Florida this year.

While the "Gators" were riding southward tonight, due to reach Jacksonville early this morning, preparations were going forward in the college town, Gainesville, for a grand reception for the team when it arrives about midday.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Amateur boxing squads from New Orleans and Boston have been invited to compete against a metropolitan team in Madison Square Garden December 14.

Several teams had sought the invitation, the boxing committee of the Metropolitan A. A. U. announced. Boston and New Orleans finally were selected by the toss of a coin.

Great Scoring Mark

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Dec. 1.—(AP)—John (Tubby) Haswell, Moccasin ball-carrier, has amassed 55 points this season, scoring against every Chattanooga opponent but Sevanee and Loyola, and is believed here to be the leading scorer of S. I. A. A. teams and second only to Felix, Tulane fullback, throughout Dixie.

Meehan Drills Violets in Defense Against McEver's Passes

John Heisman Explains Many Gridiron Deaths

By Gayle Talbot, Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(AP)—John W. Heisman, one of those who pioneered football and has lived to see it flourish beyond his fondest hopes, has a ready explanation for the mounting score of serious injury and death attached to the game.

It is, the gray-haired mentor said, the direct result of the increasing demand among the country's sport fans for fiercer action, the generation's insatiable desire for more and better thrills. The coaches and the players, he told the Associated Press today, only are trying to supply the demand.

Coach in his more strenuous days at a half dozen leading universities, Heisman has retired from the list of active mentors to reside as athletic director of the Downtown Athletic Club of New York.

"This talk about curbing football because it has been marked by some 25 or 30 deaths this season is foolish," he declared. "It's just like suggesting that we junk all the automobiles because they have killed a lot of people. We wouldn't do without automobiles and the colleges couldn't do without football."

"If the American people really are alarmed about football's death toll, they have only themselves to blame. It is their lust for hard, dangerous action that has created the situation. They, in turn, have been abetted by the coaches. Realizing they must produce, the coaches have learned to whip their players into a frenzy before the game and send them into action fired up to the limit. The successful coach nowadays must first be an orator, then a football strategist."

VOLS, 28 STRONG, LEAVE TODAY FOR NEW YORK

Neyland Says Players Are in Great Shape for Game.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Word that the undefeated University of Tennessee Volunteers have a halfback named Gene McEver who can throw a football through a hoop at 50 paces, and more often plants it in the arms of a teammate at the same distance, has penetrated the camp of the New York University Violets.

As a result, Coach Chick Meehan's hunches are seeing little but flying pickings as they prepare for Saturday's charity engagement with the southern eleven at Yankee stadium.

That the Violets had plenty to learn about knocking down passes was amply demonstrated Thanksgiving Day when they were forced to come from behind to beat Carnegie Tech, 7 to 0. During the first half of the game Tech completed eight passes out of 13 attempted, scored one touchdown and kept the ball constantly in the Violets' territory.

EXPECT PASSES. The Violets are to the prospect of facing a parade of passes, but they have no idea of being as vulnerable from the air as they were last week. Tazungu, Temple, McNamara, Joe and Herman Lamar and the other Violets backs are receiving a thorough schooling. Joe Lamar, who was injured in the Fordham game two weeks ago, has recovered and will start at quarterback Saturday.

Providing they can break up McEver's deadly passes to Reburn and Derryberry, the two great ends, and to the other Tennessee backs, the Violets feel they have better than an even chance of trimming the southerners. Kentucky, they point out, held the Volunteers to a 14-0 victory by hitting down or intercepting all six passes thrown by the Tennessee backs.

DEADLY AERIALS. The deadliness of Tennessee's overhead offense is proved by the figures for its nine games this season. Up to the Kentucky tilt, the Volunteers had attained an average of 500 with their passes, completing 42 out of 84 attempted. Even with the six that failed against the Wildcats, they still have an average of 416.

Tickets for the attraction, which promises to draw one of the year's largest crowds here, went on sale today and met a brisk demand. Part of the proceeds will go to the mayor's committee for the relief of unemployed, and part to a similar organization at Knoxville.

Today's weather was cold and overcast. There was no indication of abrupt changes in the weather before Saturday.

Vols Leave Today For Violet Game. KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 1.—(AP) A squad of 28 University of Tennessee players will leave here Wednesday afternoon for New York, where they meet the strong New York University eleven in a charity game Saturday.

Knoxville planned a big send-off for the Vols, who are engaging in their first intercollegiate clash since 1923 when they played Army at West Point.

The Volunteers will practice Thursday and Friday in New York.

Led by the sensational Gene McEver, halfback, the squad went through its last stiff home practice today. They drilled and practiced until dusk sent them from the field.

Coach Bob Neyland announced that his players were in the best of physical condition and looking forward to the contest with a spirit of determination to win.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Joe Lamar, regular quarterback of the New York University football team, today was elected captain of the violent Violets for 1932.

Lamar is 23 years old and a junior in the school of commerce. His home is at Cornopolis, Pa.

SINGER WINS BOUT. YONKERS, N. Y., Dec. 1.—(UP) Al Singer, of New York, former lightweight champion, easily outpointed Tommy Crowley, of Pittsburgh, in an eight-round bout tonight. Singer weighed 133 3/4, Crowley 140 3/4.

Returning the trip will be made to Kansas City over the Santa Fe Lines, to Birmingham over the Frisco Lines and to Atlanta over the Southern Railway.

Special rates will be accorded all members of the party. Hotel reservations may be booked on the train after leaving Atlanta.

Star Volunteer May Miss Game

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Merton Derryberry, scholar and athlete at the University of Tennessee, prepared today to sacrifice football for scholarship ambitions.

Derryberry is a candidate for a Rhodes scholarship from Tennessee. He is also a star end on the Vol football team.

Saturday his team plays New York University in Yankee stadium at New York. The same day the Tennessee committee on Rhodes scholarships meets at Memphis.

The decision was not a hard one for Derryberry, for he said today that unless some arrangement can be made, he's giving up a great desire to play with his team in New York, and going to Memphis instead to take examinations.

He lives at Columbia, Tenn.

AUBURN COACH SELECTS TEAM

Sam McAllister, Tiger Coach, Picks All-Southern Grid Squad.

AUBURN, Ala., Dec. 1.—Having seen 10 major Southern conference teams and two S. I. A. A. eleven in action this season, Coach Sam McAllister, chief scout of the Auburn Tigers, has selected an all-southern team that has three representatives from Tulane, two each from Auburn, Georgia and Vanderbilt, and one each from Tennessee and Sewanee.

Dairymple, of Tulane, who will probably be chosen on every representative all-American team, and Grant, of Auburn, who is considered all-American material by Walter Trumbull, noted sports authority, gained the wing positions on the eleven selected by the Plainsmen scout.

LEADS MICHIGAN.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Dec. 1.—(AP) Announcement of the election of Ivan Williamson as captain of the University of Michigan football eleven next year was made tonight at the annual football banquet. Williamson is an end.

COLGATE CAPTAIN.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Dec. 1.—(AP) Colgate's 1932 football captain is Robert L. Smith, of Steubenville, Ohio, a guard. Smith was elected today to succeed John Orel. The open date on Colgate's 1932 football schedule has been filled with Mississippi College.

BREAK of the DAY

have always spent about a week getting the boys used to the climate, which has an enervating influence for the first few days.

This Georgia team, however, will be right or wrong. It's a veteran team. It's had a lot of football. Three years of it. And after three years of play it's pretty difficult to get a team ready. It's either ready or it isn't—mentally.

The days of rest may be the tonic which the Georgians needed. After eight weeks of pulling on those jerseys and putting on those pads one gets rather fed up.

The Georgians will travel out the Sunset route, which Ed Barry ballyhoos. That means a trip through Louisiana, just a few feet above sea level—past the towns where they grow peppers for tabasco—past sugar mills—on out into Texas and a stop at El Paso with the international bridge five minutes away. And then on over the mountains and down the Imperial valley into Los Angeles.

It's a great trip, and to those who have been thinking about a trip to California the rate offers a good chance to make this trip a financially pleasant one.

And then across that international bridge are some refreshments. Which is no inducement to you, no doubt.

MEEHAN TO TULANE?

If Chick Meehan does replace Bernie Bierman at Tulane the south will get one of the finest fellows in the world. That is a broad statement, but one given after deliberation. Meehan is one of those fellows who is square in everything.

He'd go great in New Orleans. It was Meehan who made New York University a football factor. He brought out the crowd by putting bright-hued uniforms on his players and having a cannon fired at each N. Y. U. touchdown.

His players swear by him. And he goes his way without paying any attention at all to the criticism that comes in the big town. He'd make Tulane an even greater football factor than it is now.

All of which is quite mysterious as Ted Cox, the line coach, was said to be in line for the job.

THIS AND THAT.

The Tennessee scouts at the N. Y. U. game got a "write-up" because they had on spats, doggy looking overcoats and derbies. Now who could be wearing spats in Knoxville?—Nat Holman, the greatest basketball player in the world, is a physical director in New York—The Celtics will barnstorm for a cheap price this winter because there are no pro basketball leagues—Dan Parker suggests that Victorio Campolo, who was knocked out by "Preem" Carnera, should go back to the Argentine on a tramp ship, it being an appropriate means of conveyance—He also reports a new highball—The football highball: one drink and you kick off—All the Southern conference coaches seem pretty well set—The majors are pretty sure to make some sort of plan to aid the minor leagues—It's that "or else"—There are two factions trying to put over the new minor league for Georgia and Alabama—One wants to keep the Atlanta interests out—Pa Stribling may help promote the Schmeling-Mickey Walker bout this winter at Miami.

HIGH INTEREST IS BEING SHOWN IN JUNIOR TILTS

Sandlotters Play for City Titles on Grant Field Saturday.

By Jack Troy.

There'll be a tugging at heart-strings and a catch at throats, perhaps, when Atlanta's sandlot clan gathers on Grant field Saturday afternoon to settle the year's championship.

There is a lot of sentiment about these sandlot games. Dad and perhaps mother, sister, brother, grandmother and granddad will be in the stands to see "junior" play.

At lot of dads will see in the juniors down on Grant field the personification of their own boyhood days. There'll be fleeting memories of a bygone era, carefree days. Scenes of after-school battles on the neighbor's vacant lot.

As the gray ghosts shriek in the mad gale's flight—Oh, where is the poet left to praise The gleam and dream of the summer ways? The thrill of sport that may compare To a pipe—a book—and an easy chair?

ALL FOR GLORY. And all the while down on Grant field those little fellows will be battling their hearts out to bring the city championship to their team.

It would not be difficult to imagine, as junior takes the ball from center and starts around end behind two or three times, that these same youngsters as the Southern conference stars of the future.

They learn their football from such men as Sam Colvin, former Georgia Tech quarterback, do these Atlanta sandlotters, and they execute their formations just like the "big teams" do.

GREAT WORK.

The Atlanta Rotary Club has done a great work with the league. The club transformed rivalries that once were expressed in terms of bricks into clean, wholesome sport. In the games the youngsters learn to take their defeats with their victories. They learn what a great thing it is to be known as a "good loser."

Morningside, Wildcats, representing the north side, and the Grant Park Aces, representing the south side, battled their way through the 135-pound division to earn the right to meet in the playoff for the championship Saturday.

In the 120-pound division the O'Keefe Panthers and the Buckhead Bulldogs, by a similar process, meet in the other title game.

The committee, headed by Cherry Emerson, in charge of the league, includes Frank Spindler, Herbert Oliver and Trammell Scott. Scott is president of the Sandlot League.

There is to be an admission fee of 50 cents for grown-ups, 25 cents for children, charged. All proceeds will go into the treasury to finance the league next year.

Tickets have been placed on sale at all Jacobs' stores.

Grayson Five Wins Over Dental Quint

LOGANVILLE, Ga., Dec. 1.—The Grayson Athletic Club basketball team defeated the Atlanta Dental College five in a fast game here, 42 to 22.

The Loganville Athletic Club defeated the Grayson second team, 22 to 18.

Grayson team, coached by C. H. Brand, is improving with every game. A full schedule of games for the season is being arranged.

RAZORBACK CAPTAIN.

JAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Dec. 1.—(AP)—"Bull" Erwin, of McGehee, stellar tackle the past two years, was named 1932 University of Arkansas Razorbacks captain tonight by the squadmen at a banquet given by President John C. Futrell.

THE SPORTLIGHT

Winter Sport.

When a touch of snow creeps in the air And the north wind's roaring bugles blow, When the long, gray evenings gather down From the hills that shadow the walled-in town, When the dripping eaves with a bleak refrain Chant the wail of a winter's rain— Oh, where is the poet left to sing A song of dream in the land of spring? A song of sport that may compare To a pipe—a book—and an easy chair?

When the wild blasts howl and the shadows flit Over the wall where the fire is lit, Where the snow is deep and the driving rain Chants its dirge at the windowpane, When the dim world lies in the pit of night As the gray ghosts shriek in the mad gale's flight— Oh, where is the poet left to praise The gleam and dream of the summer ways? The thrill of sport that may compare To a pipe—a book—and an easy chair?

Temple and the West. The west coast may have been poison for the east this last season, but Temple University was just as poisonous for that part of the west that rests between the Mississippi and the Sierras.

Earlier in the season Temple beat a strong Haskell team with its star halfback, Weller, and in the last ten days proceeded to run roughshod over Denver and Missouri to close out one of the best campaigns of the year.

Heinie Miller and Bert Bell, ex-Pennsylvania stars, did a high-class job in developing a fast, resourceful squad which lost only one game. And when you lose only one game in a football season of the 1931 pattern, the time is ripe for three rousing cheers.

Olympic Warmups. South American cables announce that Juan Pina, of the Argentine, has just equalled the world's record for 100 meters at 10 2/5 and that Hector Berra, of the same sport-loving nation, has jumped 25 1/2 feet.

You will soon begin to hear more and more about Olympic stars as they get ready for the 1932 show at Los Angeles, and it would not be surprising to see the Argentine report its share.

The fighters and the polo players who have come from the land of the far south have taken over the headlines, while Jose Jurado, a little Argentine golfer, came within one tee shot of winning the last British open.

Clock Stoppers. The rumor was once current that time moved forward steadily and the years had a way of slipping by. Once we believed this.

Then we pick up a paper and see where Johnny Risko and K. O. Christner are still punching away at each other's chin, or chin, with the same old vim and vehemence.

Someone must have stopped a number of clocks about two years ago.

Short Jabs.

George Gibson, of Pittsburgh, is another who proves they can come back. And Gib comes back over a tough road. Once a baseball manager is set adrift from a club, he is rarely recalled. Gibson and the rest of them will have a long, hard summer in the National league race when it comes to overtaking the flying Cardinals.

With Carnera headed for Italy and Campolo moving back to the Argentine, the weight pressure on the United States will be lifted considerably and there will be little danger of earth compression from now on.

Football teams and football players are too often judged by one big game. None of them are super men. And there are no super teams. The main idea is to take a general average during the season.

SOUTHERN HEADS OKAY PURCHASE OF MOBILE CLUB

Bob Allen Buys Franchise; Minor Heads Go Into Huddle.

Western league, was appointed coach for the Chicago White Sox. He had been offered a renewal of his Denver contract, but turned it down to accept the Sox position.

Good Start Seen For Southern League.

The ratification by the Southern league yesterday of the West Baden meeting of the purchase of the Mobile club by Bob Allen and its transfer to Knoxville assures Dixie's Class A league of at least a good start next season.

For two seasons' financial troubles at Mobile have hurt the Southern association's general standing and twice the Mobile franchise has had to be moved for part of the season. In 1930 the "Orphan Bears," as the Mobile club was known, was made a road club, playing its last few weeks as a road team. The past season found Knoxville taking over the home games of the Mobile team in late season.

First Jimmy Hamilton and then Byrd Douglas tried unsuccessfully to operate the Mobile club on a sound financial basis. Douglas, a Nashville attorney, succeeded Hamilton, with Milton Stock as manager.

Final details as to the disposition of the Mobile club stock have been decided upon by stockholders, Douglas and Bob Allen, with President John D. Martin, of the association, favorable to the move.

The other teams in the Southern league—Birmingham, Atlanta, Memphis, Chattanooga, Nashville, New Orleans and Little Rock—appear in good financial condition and present prospects are for a good season in the Southern.

SERIOUS FUN.

Nick Altrock and Al Schacht, employed by Washington, were doing their clown act in Baltimore when Pepper Martin was playing for Rochester. Martin looked so good Al and Nick wired Griffith, who immediately tried to buy the player from the Cards. But the Cards figured if Martin was that good they'd give him a thorough trial themselves.

Grandmother Faces Sentence as Bandit

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—(AP)—A 67-year-old grandmother has been convicted as a robber. She is Mrs. Anna Baranski, who was found guilty by a jury in criminal court yesterday. The conviction carries a mandatory sentence of 1 to 20 years' imprisonment, but the trial judge deferred passing judgment and the defendant's attorneys said they would request a new trial. The authorities accused the grandmother of making small purchases in stores they planned to rob, thus learning in advance of the holdups where the money could be found.

RECEIVERS APPOINTED FOR WABASH RAILROAD

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Walter S. Franklin, president, and Frank C. Nicodemus Jr., assistant general counsel, were named co-receivers for the Wabash railway in federal district court here today by Judge C. R. Davis as petitioned for by a general creditor and agreed to by the railroad. The plaintiff is the T. J. Moss Company of St. Louis, with a claim of $40,651.95 for ties. In joining in the petition the railroad admitted it was without funds to pay about $4,000,000 in ordinary operating bills. The petition stated the railroad has $150,947,300 in bonds outstanding. Counsel for the Wabash and the company joined in recommending the appointment of Franklin who became president of the Wabash a month ago and Nicodemus Jr. as co-receivers. Franklin, who came here from an eastern position with the Pennsylvania railroad, represents the Pennsylvania interests in the Wabash. The Pennsylvania indirectly holds 48.8 per cent of the Wabash stock. There is no charge of mismanagement of the affairs of the Wabash, Judge Davis was told by Fred E. Williams, attorney for the tie company, who is a former judge of the Missouri supreme court. Williams suggested the possibility of foreclosure of the mortgages securing the bonded indebtedness of $150,947,300 in case a receivership was not ordered. The Wabash did $11,290,000 less business for the year ending October 31, Williams said than in the preceding year. It has assets exceeding its liabilities by more than $6,000,000 "at fair value," he added. The railroad, with headquarters here, was described as a system of 2,237 miles, extending from St. Louis to Chicago, Detroit, Buffalo, Kansas City, Des Moines, Iowa, and Omaha.

PENNSYLVANIA REFUSED TO HELP WABASH ROAD PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1.—(AP)—W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, revealed today his company had declined to render financial assistance to the Wabash Railway Company which went into the hands of receivers in St. Louis today.
